Mexico's Great Future Very Small Planet, but—No Mother Love, No Nation

Married at Two Years of Age

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HODGE, CAL., April 2—Recent visit to Mexico convince this writer that to help in building Mexico's prosperity would be one way to build up United States prosperity. The Mexicans possess an empire of unsurpassed beauty, mineral and other wealth. The Mexican people are hard, patient and skilful workers, and hundreds of thousands of Mexicans could, and gladly would, learn mechanical skilled trades, well paid.

Some of the billions that our bankers lend so cheerfully to Europe, not always to get them back, could be lent to greater advantage and more safety to Mexico. To help in building a greater and wealthier Mexico, would be to create new and rich markets for the United States.

Every new, good road in Mexico would mean many American automobiles sold. Every Mexican, helped by credit to attain prosperity, would mean a new customer for American-made goods, pending the building up of all industries in Mexico.

This is the continent that interests us. And the nations that should have our sincere and generous co-operation are our nearest neighbors, Canada, on the north, Mexico on the south. To build, north and south, with the aid of our unlimited wealth, the honor and deserved friendship of those countries would be to make this North American continent forever invulnerable to attack.

There would be a triple alliance worth while—CANADA, THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO. Neighbors, friends, allies, respecting the rights and contributing to the prosperity of the other two.

Fernand Baldet, French astronomer of Meudon, says the new planet, discovered by an American, is not important because it is 30 times smaller than the earth. What of it? A human brain is many billion times smaller than this planet, but it gives the earth all its value.

Size is nothing. The Bible teaches that many angels could dance on the point of a needle, and science says millions of them really could dance there. The needle point would be a vast ballroom, if the angels were as small as atoms. They may be smaller.

The power that rules this universe which, of course, is not a human shaped God with beard, hair and feet, may have no size at all. Consider the size of radium, sending out force for centuries, and don't despise the new planet.

Russia, forgetting Sparta's history, plans a human society made to order. Children, taken from their mothers in babyhood, will be raised wholesale by the State. Mothers will enter factories, and otherwise work the state can best do, or, rather, as mares do, on the farm.

Russia should remember that when a mare is valuable, and a fine horse is wanted, the mare is not put to work before the colt is born or afterward. Sparta educated its youth, trained young men to surprise and murder the miserable Helot slaves on their way to work at sunrise, that the young men might be fierce in war. Sparta's law used iron for money, and no man might care to have much of it.

Fine theories were worked out there as in Russia, but Sparta amounted to little. Athens, where human nature was allowed to develop according to rules NOT suggested by Draco or Karl Marx, produced Greek grandeur, art, literature and philosophy.

We are wound up at birth, to run in a certain way, our inborn impulses are our mainsprings, and we cannot remake ourselves. To interfere with the family, with the mother's passionate love of her children, with man's ambition, stimulated by duty to his family, and reverence for his father and mother, is to insure a nation's downfall.

Throughout India, recently, thousands of little girls, from two to 10 years of age, have been hurriedly married, a majority of them to full grown men, in time to escape provisions of a child-marriage law just promulgated throughout all British India. The law does not apply to territories of native princes, gentlemen that submit to British overlordship, draw on British revenues and may do with little girls and others as they please.

No girl under 14, no boy under 18 may be legally married in British India, and there is deep resentment on religious grounds. The Hindu believes that a horrible destiny awaits the female child dying unmar-

HOLD BROKER IN $500,000 BANK THEFT

George A. Rivinius Gives Up and Confesses Huge Cotton Fraud to Police

George A. Rivinius of Winchester, sales agent for a Philadelphia cotton concern, was arrested today at the Milk st. station, charged with larceny through bank transactions that will total $500,000, according to police.

Rivinius maintained an office at 211 Congress st.

Rivinius gave himself up to Capt. Perley H. Skillings and Special Officers Herbert A. Dwyer and Joseph Marshall and made the startling confession, police said, that told of transactions with two Boston banks.

He said he surrendered on advice of his wife, who asked him to make a clean breast of the affair after he first horrified her with his confession.

He was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Dowd in municipal court and held in $50,000 bail for hearing April 10.

One count of forgery and another of uttering, naming the specific amount of $287,241.41, were placed against him.

Atty. Francis R. Mullin, next door neighbor of Rivinius, appeared with him and pleaded for low bail, arguing that the man gave himself up.

Atty. John P. Wright represented the Philadelphia concern.

The total of the alleged pecula-

CARDINAL AT GRAVE OF FR. POWER

Many Pilgrims Visit Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, Reopened for Prayers

PICTURE ON PAGE 16

William Cardinal O'Connell, alone and unannounced, visited Holy Cross cemetery in Malden today as pilgrims were flocking anew to the grave of the late Patrick H. Power.

The cardinal reached the cemetery his brother, Edward O'Connell, a communicant of the church, and then walked down to the new grave of Fr. Power, where he remained for a brief period.

Cardinal O'Connell, before he left the cemetery, ordered the closed chapel opened during the daytime.

Meanwhile several scores of men, women and children were visiting the new grave of the young priest, protected now by two fences, the second 15 feet from the plot, and praying near the wire mesh of the outer barrier.

Several of the pilgrims went to the old site of Fr. Power's grave, scooped up some earth, and then went to the new grave to say their prayers.

Others dug earth from the lawn around the outer fence of the new location and took it away with them.

Garrett and Counsel at Pension Probe

Atty. Callahan — Oliver B. Garrett

Ex-Patrolman Oliver B. Garrett and his counsel, Attorney Herbert P. Callahan, snapped at resumption of Atty-Gen. Warner's inquiry into the pensioning of former rum raider today. POLICE HEAD IS SCORED ON HUB VICE CONDITIONS AT GARRETT HEARING

A savage attack on Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson's enforcement of liquor and vice laws in Boston and a caustic belittlement of his "thorough investigation" of Oliver B. Garrett were made today at the public hearing of the Garrett inquiry.

Wilson, police commissioner since 1929, himself named in connection with graft charges, took the witness stand to defend his administration.

Under a rapid fire of questions shot by Damon E. Hall, special assistant named to prosecute the attorney-general's investigation of Garrett, Wilson was forced to admit that he had never made any inquiry to determine whether patrolmen were keeping watch on liquor and vice resorts.

A specific complaint charging Garrett with graft which reached him in a letter was investigated only to the extent that Capt. George W. Patterson, commanding the vice squad, questioned the pensioned liquor raider, he admitted.

He was also forced into the admission that during the past five years about the only persons jailed for liquor law violations by Boston police were waiters, bartenders and truck drivers.

"We couldn't get the owners," he declared.

It was Hall's contention that waiters and bartenders exclusively made up the class of those prosecuted by the police, but the commissioner added the truck driver.

When Hall inquired whether he knew of any case in five years where the "bigger fellows" were successfully prosecuted, he replied:

"I don't know what you mean by bigger fellows."

When Hall emphasized his admission that only four places had been padlocked in 18 months, he said: "It's hard to get padlocks."

The prosecutor asked whether any such places as the Hotel Ritz and the Elks Hotel had been padlocked by police, and Wilson answered: "I don't think there were enough convictions."

Garrett's name did not enter Hall's questions until near the end of the morning session after he had secured, by hypothetical questions, the commissioner's opinion of a policeman who lied, associated with bootleggers, recommended attorneys and bailsmen to prisoners he arrested and whose wife accepted money from bootleggers and vice resorts.

A long series of questions established that Commissioner Wilson was aware of his tremendous powers and responsibilities, but when Hall inquired why he had never investigated to determine whether the police were watching liquor and vice establishments he said:

"Supt. Michael H. Crowley was the commanding officer."

Questioned regarding the "thorough investigation" he had made after receiving a report that Patrolmen Garrett and Roach were grafters, he replied:

"Capt. Patterson made the investigation and took the words of the parties he investigated."

It was near the close of the morning session—with Wilson's examination only about a quarter done—when Hall asked:

"At an early date in your administration you began to receive complaints against O. B. Garrett? You began to receive complaints that he was grafting, didn't you?"

"Possibly," said the commis-

U. S. ACCEPTS JAPS' TERMS

London, April 3 (INS)—Complete agreement on disarmament programs was reached by the delegates of the United States, Great Britain and Japan today.

It was announced officially that the American and British representatives had accepted the reservations embodied in the Japanese section of the Reed-Matsudaira compromise agreement.

Acceptance of the Japanese reservations makes a tri-partite treaty between the three major naval powers of the world a certainty.

If the security demands of France can now be satisfied, it is highly probable that a five-power armament reduction will materialize.

The reservations set forth in the Japanese acceptance were technical, and regarded by British and American experts as not affecting the efficacy of the compromise agreement obtained here by Senator David A. Reed, of the American delegation, and Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to England.

The reservations made by the Tokio government to the agreement, which gives Japan a virtual 70 per cent ratio in all classes of Millions for Boy, 15, at St. Paul's

Quiet and unassuming Alexis Thompson, one of 425 students at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., today became the heir to an estate valued at $2,500,000 to $5,000,000, a dispatch from Chicago announced.

Thompson is the 15-year-old son of the late David Thompson, millionaire director of the Inland Steel Co.

A good mixer, and an ardent athlete, he is one of the most popular boys of the school. While his fellow students knew his parent was in comfortable circumstances, he never made known to them that he was in the millionaire class.

He plans to enter Harvard after the three remaining years of his course at St. Paul's. He is a good student, officials said.

The boy's father died at Miami, Fla., last March, leaving no will.

'WITCH' SLAYER GIVEN LIFE

Buffalo, N. Y., April 3—Lois Zimerson, the "Red Lily" of the Cayuga Indians, today pleaded guilty in a hospital room, which temporarily became a county court, to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchione, wife of Henri Marchand, widely known artist.

His plea will mean a life sentence to prison. Sentence was expected to be passed at once.

GARRETT CASE

WILSON SAYS ALL RAIDERS ACCUSED OF 'GRAFTING'

Hall remarked, tritely, "Very likely that's so," and the commissioner, extremely cool in his answers up to that point, answered testily: "It certainly is so!"

Hall called Wilson's attention to a statement he had made before the legislative rules committee before the present probe was ordered. It was:

"No evidence was ever brought to me as police commissioner when a man was accused of grafting but what it was thoroughly investigated."

Wilson admitted he had told the rules committee all such charges were investigated, whether anonymous or not.

Hall introduced a letter taken from Wilson's files signed by "Louie," which charged Garrett and Roach with accepting platinum watches, smoking sets and other expensive gifts from persons they had raided.

"I want to know Mr. Wilson, what the thorough investigation was in that case," Hall pounded.

Wilson said he referred it to Capt. Patterson.

PROBE BANK BOOKS

"You made no outside investigation, merely sent it to the captain and you took the captain's word and Garrett's word?"

"Yes, sir," admitted the commissioner.

"And fingering a sheaf of letters—all these complaints were investigated by Capt. Patterson?"

"Yes."

He admitted that, although he had perfect confidence in the trained men of his bureau of criminal investigation, he had not used them to inquire into charges of graft against Garrett.

Wilson was sworn by Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner before a crowded hearing room. He was accompanied by his counsel, Frank H. Stewart, and his secretary, William H. Merrick.

Garrett was present with his attorney, Herbert F. Callahan. Before Wilson was sworn Callahan asked permission to question Mrs. May Butterfield, widow of the Ritz Hotel waiter, who testified she gave Garrett envelopes, and Warner granted permission, providing he first submitted his questions in writing.

The printed report that Wilson's bank accounts had been and still are under inquiry was corroborated officially by Hall.

The act outlining the powers of the police commissioners was read into the records and under a series of questions Commissioner Wilson admitted that he had power to appoint, remove, punish or demote the members of the department.

"You may, on either new grave charges against a member of the police force, determine not to submit them to a trial board?" Hall asked.

Wilson agreed that that was correct.

"You have sole and complete power as to what you will do in any given case where complaints are made against a member of the department?

"Yes," he answered.

The commissioner first side-stepped a direct admission when Hall asked: "Under the rules you had authority to see that your rules were obeyed?"

"Well, I had to depend on division commanders," said Wilson.

The rule into the enforcement of which Wilson never inquired reads as follows:

"He (patrolman) shall take particular notice of all places where he suspects liquor is sold illegally and report to his commanding officer. That a patrolman shall watch junk shops, theaters, auction rooms, places for the sale of lottery tickets and houses of ill repute.

"Also that rule enforced?" Hall asked.

NEVER PROBED VICE

Wilson, at all times cool, replied, "As far as I know it was enforced. I never appointed any man to the force that I didn't show them the rules and tell them what was to be expected of them and I have appointed over 600 men."

"Did you investigate to find out if this rule was enforced?" asked Hall.

"No, sir."

Wilson said he had to rely on his 21 division commanders to find out that "a thing as small as that memorandum rule was being enforced."

"Have you periodically made inquiries as to whether patrolmen were obeying that rule?"

"No," said Wilson; "it is the duty of division commanders to see that officers keep memorandums."

He admitted it wouldn't be a great task to inquire of them whether the rule was being enforced.

Wilson said that innumerable times he had called on his division commanders for reports of liquor and vice conditions in Charlestown, South Boston, Brighton and Back Bay.

"I told them I wanted them to clean up the divisions, prosecute everyone and protect none. Those were the orders I issued."

He said he had the captains get reports from patrolmen about suspected liquor resorts and questionable houses and Hall inquired whether the captains had the reports now.

"Yes, unless they destroyed them," Wilson answered.

"Do you think they destroyed them?"

"I shouldn't think so."

Hall asked: "Do you think if a patrolman winks at places where liquor is sold it is a case of neglect of duty?" and the commissioner replied: "No, if one patrolman didn't get it, another would."

WILSON IS GRILLED

Asked whether it would be a serious offense if police captains and chiefs failed to report such places, Wilson answered: "Maybe."

The commissioner agreed with Hall that one of the most important rules in the department was that forbidding patrolmen to engage in any private calling, engage in any business interests or to join any fraternal buildings in any enterprise.

Would that rule also bar a policeman's wife from engaging in private conversation? Hall inquired.

"I wouldn't say so," said Wilson.

"Do you think the wife, when engaged in private business with others who might violate the law, would impair the efficiency of the officer?

"I don't think so."

"Well," said Hall, "suppose the wife of a policeman is engaged in business with a known bootlegger without impairing the efficiency of the officer, would that be justified in calling the officer on the carpet and finding out the truth?"

The commissioner said he would.

"And suppose the wife of the officer was constantly visiting bootleggers and proprietors of dives of iniquity. Is there anything more calculating to destroy the efficiency of the officer?"

Wilson answered: "I should agree with you, and admitted he would investigate that officer very expeditiously.

The rule relative to acceptance of gratuity by policemen was read and Wilson admitted its purpose was to stop graft in the department.

He admitted it was his job, as commissioner, to see that it was enforced and admitted further that a violator of the rule was subject to dismissal.

CAN'T RULE WIVES

He admitted it would be as reprehensible for the wife of a patrolman to receive such a gratuity but declared, smiling for the first time, that a man couldn't always control his wife.

"Now let's get right down to my question," said Hall. "Can you think of anything that could be more demoralizing and more working for inefficiency of the officer than for his wife to receive gifts from persons liable to arrest or complaint?"

"It would not be a good attitude at all," Wilson said.

It was a situation to warrant an investigation."

The commissioner admitted it was "if it had the facts."

The rule forbidding patrolmen to associate in those business with characters of questionable business was read and Hall asked:

"If it came to your attention that a man known to bundle with persons of bad character such as known bootleggers, that would surely your instant disapproval?"

"Yes."

"You would probably discharge him?"

"Yes, sir."

Garrett's name entered Wilson's testimony for the first time when he admitted Garrett had never made application for a hearing before the commissioner under a rule for the protection of patrolmen whose reputation has been injured without specific charges.

Wilson said it was "some job trying to police."

tions is divided nearly equally between the two banks, he said.

As sales agent for Gen. H. McFadden Logan, Philadelphia cotton merchants, he told police, he obtained loans on faked bills of lading and raised legitimate loans granted to his company.

In one instance, he said, an order for cotton of $100,000 was legitimately sent from Philadelphia and he raised it to $250,000.

When the papers were sent for the signatures of the directors of the company, he forged the name of J. W. Frothingham and John W. Amory, director, he said, according to the police.

IS FATHER OF THREE.

He told the police that the penalizations covered a period of four years, during which time he maintained a home at 246 Main st, Winchester. He also told them he was married and was the father of three children.

He has about $1000 in cash and some small amounts that can be retrieved from sale of stocks he owns, he said.

He attributed his loss of the money to the stock market crash in October, a mind has been a "constant turmoil" since.

BANKS IN THE DARK.

Fearful of the consequences if it weighed on his mind much longer, Ford, it is said, decided to tell the police today.

The banks were unaware of the illicit dealings until the police notified them of Rivinius' statement. Both placed auditors on the account of Rivinius and the loan and draft accounts of the McFadden Co.

Following his formal arrest on a charges of larceny through the raised bank, police visited his office and seized 200 paper, mostly drafts.

Specific charges of larceny from the banks would be made when the auditors checked the accounts, the police said.

Rivinius told police he was a graduate of Harvard, class of 1906. Afterwards he took a course at Harvard law school, but never practised on account of an impediment in his speech.

added, represented about 16 per cent of its stock.

"The opposition is to continue holding this stock," President Atterbury asserted, "unless it is decided to consolidate New England as a whole."

He expressed the opinion that consolidation would not be in the best interest of New England. He declared the district would be better served with the New York Central on the north and his own road on the south, both operating on a competitive basis.

John J. Pelley, president of the New Haven road, said an apparent solution of the grain handling problem into Providence had been found and its plan forwarded to the committee. He endorsed the stand of Gen. Atterbury on the operating relations between the Pennsylvania and New Haven roads.

BIG SHIP LINE.

Establishment of a New England line of steamships to engage in coastal and transatlantic traffic was advocated by former officials of the lines for Boston to overcome the present differential handicap which hampers the prosperity of the port.

The remedy was prescribed by Gerrit Fort, chairman of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, who, however, predicted its success depended upon railroads with termini west of New England having a financial stake in New England roads.

RAPS RATE ADJUSTMENT.

Speaking for the Maritime Association, Mr. Fort declared his body was unalterably opposed to the consolidation of New England railroads into one system, on the ground that consolidation would kill competition and prove detrimental to the water carrier service of this area.

While the present rate adjustment both rail and water in force in New England is a serious handicap, particularly as to grain, I do not regard it as an insuperable obstacle if it cannot be removed," said Fort.

"Perhaps the most effective way to settle the differential question would be for New England to establish its own steamship line on the Atlantic. A New England-owned and managed company with enough ships to provide dependable sailings, modern terminal facilities, and offering rates that would give Boston the benefit of its natural advantage of distance, service to European ports, should, and would, I believe, soon attract a substantial amount of traffic."

NO B. & A. MERGER

Inclusion of the Boston & Albany in a consolidated system was deemed "utterly impracticable," by President Crowley by reason of the obligation resting on the New York Central lines to guarantee $24,000,000 in improvement bonds issued by the Boston & Albany.

Consolidation under these conditions, Mr. Crowley continued, would mean that the New York Central, continuing to be responsible for this bonded indebtedness, would be asked to accept some form of guaranty or indemnity from a consolidated company, which might or might not be able to meet the obligation and which might, through insolvency at some time during the life of the lease of the Boston & Albany to the New York Central, turn back to the New York Central the Albany line in depreciated physical condition with its traffic diverted to other roads.

CITES COAST LINE.

My opinion is," Crowley concluded, "that the Boston & Albany should remain with the New York Central as heretofore proposed by the Stevens committee, and in conformity with the plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Stressing the fact that the governor's committee was not created solely to consider consolidation, but rather the broad question of New England transportation facilities, Redfield Proctor, president of the New England Council, emphasized the possibilities latent in water transportation systems.

"New England has a long shore line," he declared, "with numerous good harbors and ports already developed. It is the hope of the council that this committee will consider the co-ordination of rail and water transportation with a view to the development of both foreign and domestic commerce through New England gateways."

WILSON TELLS HOW GARRETT CHARGES WERE LOOKED INTO

Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and his secretary, William H. Merrick, and Special Police Officer William Gouldston entered the Garrett hearing-room only a minute before its hearing was scheduled to open.

At 10.30 Atty.-Gen. Warner, Special Asst. Damon E. Hall and Asst. Atty.-Gen. George R. Lourie entered. Atty. Hall carried a large bundle of records.

Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Garrett, arose from the side of the former liquor raider and advanced to the witness table.

"Mr. Attorney-General," he said, "I request that Mrs. Mae Butterfield, who testified at this hearing several days ago, be recalled for examination by me, at your convenience."

Warner: "I shall do so if you submit to me the questions you desire to ask her."

To this request Callahan agreed. Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon Hall then called Police Commissioner Wilson to the witness stand. Wilson stepped forward raised his hand to take the oath and Atty.-Gen. Warner asked the usual questions as to whether he was a voluntary witness.

Wilson nodded that he was.

Hall then said: "Before I begin my examination Mr. Commissioner, do you care to make any preliminary statement."

"Not at this time," was Wilson's reply.

Wilson Had Agreed to His Bank Account Scrutiny

Hall then read a letter from Wilson in reply to Warner's letter of March 24, in which the police commissioner said that he would be glad to confer in the wishes of Warner to have his bank accounts examined.

Q.—Do you recall that letter, Mr. Commissioner? A.—Yes.

Q.—And accountants are still working on that matter? A.—I believe so.

Following the reading of the letters Commr. Wilson seemed nervous. There was a tenseness in the room. All spectators bent forward in expectancy.

Wilson looked from right to left. Atty. Callahan fell attention to the fact the attorney-general had requested a letter asking information concerning the duties of the office and Wilson admitted he had received the letter and had replied.

The letters were then read.

The substance of the attorney general's letter was a request for all reports with names of men and dates of raids in which they figured. He said in the letter that he should appreciate such information by messenger."

Wilson's letter in reply was dated March 11, 1930, in which the commissioner declined to furnish data dealing with reports of men in the department figuring in raids would be sent.

Q.—Are there other reports that you didn't send? A.—I think there are others. They are not indexed under the name Oliver B. Garrett.

Q.—And those records are dealing with the raids? A.—Yes.

Q.—Dr. Wilson, you succeeded Edwin U. Curtis as police commissioner on April 3, 1922? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—The principal power under which you operate as police commissioner is contained in section 10 of the act of 1906? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—They are all in that section, is it not? A.—Yes, sir.

"If in the course of the investigation it develops that I may want to make a statement I suppose that I shall have that privilege."

"You have," replied Hall and continuing said:

"Mr. Wilson, in connection with several matters that have appeared in the public press I think as an advantage to you I should put these letters into the record."

Hall then read a letter written by Wilson to the attorney-general on March 22 last, in which the commissioner offered every assistance to the investigation.

Another letter from the attorney-general to Commissioner Wilson written on March 24 was read as follows:

"In connection with the investigation I have considered it my duty to examine the bank accounts of Officer Garrett. I also feel that other officials of the police department concerned in the opinion of Officer Garret should have their bank accounts examined also.

"I have a reputable accountant whom I have assigned to examine your bank accounts over the past five years to determine the source of your income."

Wilson Admits Power Is Sole and Complete

Q. Now that, of course, imposes a grave and important duty on you, Mr. Commissioner? A.—Yes.

Q.—You may, no matter how grave the charges against a member of the police force, decide not to submit them to a trial board? A.—Yes.

Q.—And no matter how trivial the charges you may determine to submit them to a trial board? A.—Yes.

Q.—You may yourself make an investigation of any charges filed against the police officer? A.—Yes. I presume I could.

Q.—You may submit to a trial board any charges against a police officer and then overrule the findings of the trial board? A.—Yes.

Q.—So that you have sole and complete power as to what you will do in any given case where complaints are made against a member of the department? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, with these broad powers you have of course realized that the responsibility of keeping or removing unfit men was yours and yours alone? A.—Yes.

Q.—And since you had the responsibility of determining whether or not an officer was fit or unfit for his position, you—

Q.—And now, Mr. Wilson, under such intent you were empowered to make all the regulations for the efficiency of the department? A.—Yes.

Q.—And in order that all men in the department might know what those rules and regulations were one of your rules was that the division commander see that all men of the department have copies of them and study and obey them? A.—Yes.

Q.—And it was of the utmost importance that these rules promulgated by you should be enforced and obeyed? A.—Yes.

Q.—Under the rules you had authority to see that your rules were obeyed? A.—Well, I had to depend upon division commanders.

Q.—And the division commanders were responsible to you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, under the powers given you you had complete authority at all times to punish, remove or lower in rank any officer who did not obey the rules? A.—If the evidence warranted it.

Q.—I call your attention to section 20 of rule 27; you recall that rule, do you not? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that rule reads as follows, referring to patrolmen: "He shall take particular notice of all places where he suspects liquor is sold illegally and report to his commanding officer. That a patrolman shall watch junk shops, theatres, auction rooms, places for the sale of lottery tickets and houses of ill fame.

And that he shall keep a list of these places and report the same to his commanding officer.

Q.—The purpose of that rule was in keep tabs on and put out of business, through reports of patrolmen and through the co-operation of division commanders, places where liquor was illegally sold? A.—Yes.

Q.—Places like drug stores? A.—Yes.

Q.—And also questionable houses? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was that rule enforced? A.—As far as I know it was enforced. I never appointed any men to the force that I didn't show them the rules and tell them what was to be expected of them and I have appointed over 600 men.

Q.—Did you ever investigate to find out if this rule was obeyed? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Well, why didn't you investigate? A.—Well, the superintendent was the commanding officer.

Q.—Do you mean Mr. Crowley? A.—Yes. Officers have often come before me at hearings with memorandum books. I supposed that it was being done.

Q.—Why didn't you inquire of

Flees "Gang"

Mrs. Mary Butterfield, star witness in the Garrett case, who is reported to have fled the State because of threats by the "little gang." (Staff photo.)

STAR WITNESS IS MISSING

Intimidated by members of the "little gang," and fearful of bodily harm, Mrs. Mary Butterfield, star witness of the Garrett probe to date, has fled the State.

At last Friday's public hearing of Atty.-Gen. Warner's investigation of the pensioned liquor squad leaders police activities, Mrs. Butterfield testified that her late husband, Fred E. Butterfield, former Hotel Ritz headwaiter, had given sealed envelopes to Garrett each week at the Butterfield home on St. Botolph st.

In the absence of her husband, on at least three occasions, she personally handed the envelopes to Garrett, Mrs. Butterfield testified.

Atty. Joseph Pico, who represented Butterfield in a number of transactions involving a legacy and has represented Mrs. Butterfield in one or two civil matters since the death of her husband, said today that he had knowledge of the woman's whereabouts.

ried, even though no fault of her own. In a recent "marriage," the Hindu bride was two years old, the groom an adult. We are shocked at that, but very recently good Presbyterians here and elsewhere taught that an infant dying without baptism, through no fault of its own, was damned eternally. What's the difference?

'CROWLEY WAS IN COMMAND,' WILSON TELLS GARRETT PROBERS

"Crowley Was in Command; I Never Probed Vice," Wilson Tells Garrett Investigators

WOMAN SOUGHT IN MILES CASE

A mystery woman, reported of high standing in Washington society, was sought today in connection with the "highball" death of Basil Miles, former husband of Mrs. H. H. Rogers, wife of the oil magnate, while Boston and Concord relatives remained mum on the investigation of the death two years ago.

Miles died at Washington Emergency Hospital June 14, 1928, gasping out words of love for his wife, now the wife of the oil man.

On a report that she had given him a highball just prior to his death, Asst. Dist. Atty. Neil Buckinshaw of Washington started an investigation yesterday that indicated the body may be exhumed.

RELATIVES ARE SILENT

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitney Surrett of Concord, brother-in-law and sister of the dead man, were expected to be asked to authorize the exhumation in the capacity of relatives.

Another relative, Mrs. C. E. Cotting of 410 Beacon st., niece of Miles, refused to comment on the investigation.

Edgar Hoover, chief investigator for the department of justice, interested himself in the case, making a trip from Washington to New York to question Mrs. Rogers at the Long Island estate of Col. Rogers.

At the Rogers' home, however, it was said the couple were motoring somewhere in the South.

Several New York acquaintances of Miles were sought then by Hoover for questioning.

At the Concord home of the Surrettes a report that the couple had left for Washington was denied by a secretary, but the couple denied themselves to interviewers.

NO AUTOPSY HELD

The examination, if it is made, from his last resting place at Laurel Hills Cemetery, Philadelphia, may show any contributory cause of death, investigators pointed out, even after two years. No autopsy was ever performed.

The Washington society woman sought is said to have visited Miles and left the room shortly before his then wife entered.

Among those questioned to date are Dr. Edward J. Grass, resident physician at the hospital. Dr. Grass certified that death was due to pulmonary embolism, a condition created by clotting of the blood and eventually causing asphyxia.

It was a purplish hue on the dead man's face and the alleged presence of liquor in the room that led to the present investigation.

Mrs. Maude Nash, a nurse; Dr. James F. Mitchell, superintendent of the hospital, and James Hicks, Miles' servant, also will be questioned.

GUNMEN SHOOT 2 IN HOLDUP

New York, April 3 (AP)—Two men were wounded today by two gunmen who held up 12 patrons of a Greenwich Village restaurant and robbed them of $100.

The wounded men were shot when they disclaimed any knowledge of the combination of the safe in the restaurant.

The patrons were lined up against the wall and robbed. Then the gunmen found Abraham Edesman asleep in a chair behind a partition. He was shot in the knee when he said he didn't know the combination. When Harry Gold, a waiter, said he did not know how to open the safe he was shot in the stomach and back. As he fell they escaped in a waiting automobile.

Zeppelin on First 1930 Trial Cruise

Friedrichshafen, Ger., April 3 (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, with several improvements, including a gondola directly under the passenger cabin for an electrical plant, took off this morning for its first trial flight of 1930. Only the crew and Zeppelin company engineers were aboard.

Only Male Reporters to See Coolidge Home

Northampton, April 3 (AP)—So many newspaper reporters want to see "The Beeches," new home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, that Mrs. Morris L. Comey, who sold it to the former President, but who is still in possession of the place, has consented to pilot a party through the mansion at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Comey has imposed one restriction upon her invitation—male reporters only will be admitted.

Mrs. Comey told local newspapermen today that she had received calls for information from newspapers as far west as Chicago. "The Beeches" was described by Mr. Coolidge when he purchased it as a "modest place with a little land." Actually it is a 16-room house with nine acres of grounds, an outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts and spacious gardens. Interiorly the house contains four baths, an elevator and numerous other conveniences.

Mrs. Comey is the widow of the general superintendent of the West Boylston Manufacturing Company of Eastampton. The house was built for Dr. Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar College, when he was professor of English at Smith College.

G. O. P. IS UPSET IN JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, R. I., April 3—Republican inhabitants of this town today rubbed their eyes in amazement when results of the annual town election disclosed a Democratic sweep.

Unwonted activity in securing registration of voters by Democratic henchmen is freely admitted by both sides as the factor which furnished the election surprise.

For the most valued prize in the contest, Samuel W. Smith, Jr., defeated Council President G. P. Hull running for re-election, by a vote of 339 to 310. Smith carried two other Democrats into office with him on the town council, William A. Barber and Frank S. Furtado, whom Smith supported, receiving the endorsement of both parties.

The Democrats also won the office of town moderator, James R. Masterson defeating Charles A. Benheimer, 334 to 314.

Athol Company Gets $199,000 Tax Refund

Washington, April 3 (AP)—A refund of $199,553 to the Union Twist Drill Co., Athol, Mass., for overassessment of income and profit taxes in 1918-19-20 and 1925 was announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

EMPLOYMENT IS ON UPGRADE

New York, April 3 (AP)—The New York World, in a national survey of business conditions, said today:

"Business in the United States, while spotty, has turned the corner. Unemployment is on the wane, the trend of trade is definitely upward and the closing months of the year will find business in larger volume than in the late months of 1929."

Such was the substance of replies of leading industrialists, national merchandisers, bankers, insurance company heads, statistical experts and leaders of organized employers and organized labor to the following query: "How was business in the first quarter of 1930; what is the outlook for business in the remaining nine months?"

Court Orders Taxes of Eight Mills Abated

Fall River, April 3—An abatement of city taxes in favor of eight mills in the aggregate sum of $245,618 was ordered here today by Judge Wilfred D. Gray of Superior Court, who upheld the findings of Commissioner Charles B. Rugg, special master before whom the mill pleas were heard.

Lower assessment of mill property, on which Commissioner Rugg recommended the tax refunds, will force the city to operate with a $37,000,000 reduction in the valuation of taxable property, according to Mayor Edmond P. Talbot.

City Solicitor Josiah L. Hurley declared today he would appeal the decision of Judge Gray to the Supreme Court. The abatements were authorized in favor of the Flint, Barnard, King Philip, Wampanoag mills and their subsidiaries.

Physician Loses Race With Death

Dayton, O., April 3 (AP)—A plane-train race with death ended in failure early today when Mrs. Rufus J. King, wife of a Dayton manufacturer, died 45 minutes before the scheduled arrival from Camden, N. J., of Dr. Len Collins, University of Pennsylvania Hospital oxygen expert, summoned in a last attempt to save her from succumbing to pneumonia.

Dr. Collins started from Camden yesterday morning by airplane, but was forced to discontinue his flight at Pittsburgh.

9 DEAD, SCORES HURT IN BLAST

Philadelphia, April 3 (AP)—Nine persons were killed and scores of others injured in explosions today at the plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display Company, Inc., at Devon, 16 miles west of Philadelphia. About 25 injured were taken to Bryn Mawr Hospital.

The first explosion, at 9:50 a. m., shook houses and other buildings. Then the entire neighborhood was shaken by successive blasts. Householders rushing outdoors encountered dense smoke and debris flying through the air.

Automobiles passing the plant were said to have been thrown from the road.

The plant of Benjamin T. Dentzer, a short distance away and where 200 persons were employed, was partly wrecked by flying debris.

Workmen in a switch tower of the Pennsylvania railroad nearly a half-mile away were thrown to the floor by the blasts.

All available firemen and apparatus and police from surrounding towns and state police were rushed to the scene.

An emergency call to Valley Forge Military Academy brought Maj. Milton G. Baxter, head of the academy, and his school's entire personnel of 250 cadets to the scene. They formed a guard around the plant.

CARDINAL VISITS POWER GRAVE

IN NEW GRAVE

The new grave of Fr. Power is 200 yards from its former location. It is now on the slope leading up to the cemetery chapel on the left hand division of the undulating slope as one stands facing the chapel.

Except on the opposite side of the main road leading from the main gate to rear of the cemetery, there are no graves on the immediate vicinity to be trampled by any throngs.

Because of the protecting fences, there will be no opportunity for pilgrims hereafter to obtain earth from the grave itself.

WITHIN TWO FENCES

The inner fence, enclosing the grave, is of wrought iron, while the outer fence, forming a square some 15 feet away, is of wire, seven feet high.

The cemetery will be open from 9 until 5 on week days and from 1 to 5 on Sundays. The bell of All Souls' Chapel on the grounds will toll at 4:30, as a warning to leave.

Reporters were told that Cardinal O'Connell will make an announcement regarding the cemetery within a week.

Pilgrims are expected later to be allowed to enter the outer enclosure which encircles the grave and be allowed to pray.

Crowds See Wagner Widow's Cortege

Bayreuth, Bavaria, April 3 (AP)—A solemn funeral ceremony for Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of the great composer, was conducted in the music room in the Villa Wahnfried today. It was attended by a few near relatives and friends.

The coffin, covered with white roses with Richard Wagner's picture at the head, was carried by an honor guard of police to the hearse. Preceded by a delegation carrying a cross of yellow roses, the hearse moved past huge crowds bareheaded under the gray skies.

Neck Broken, Jury Gives Him $110,000

New York, April 2 (AP)—Albert Pieri, 19, of Union City, N. J., whose neck was broken when he fell 165 feet down an intake air shaft into the third sub-cellar of the J. P. Morgan building, was awarded $110,000 damages by a supreme court jury today.

Speed Fiends Steal Concrete Mixer to Take a 'Joy Ride'

Charlestown residents, being exhausted all other thrills in stealing stolen cars, are thought to have been guilty of stealing one of the Boston Transit concrete mixers on Rutherford ave., Charlestown, this morning.

A driver returning from delivering a load of concrete in Everett, stopped in Charlestown to get his lunch. When he came out of the restaurant he found his traveling mixer gone. As the huge truck is very conspicuous and not able to exceed a speed of 20 miles an hour, the police expect to recover it within a short time.

BAY STATE PAIR IN DEATH TRIAL

Tampa, Fla., April 3 (NEA)—After viewing the scene of the killing, the jury in the trial of Raymond Mathews, 24, former Homer, Felix Mass., shoe salesman, jointly indicted with his wife for the murder last summer of Oscar P. Crawford, 57-year-old carpenter-fisherman, of Fairport, Fla., returned to the courtroom today to listen to the final phases of the State's case.

Before the days session of the trial, which is expected to get into the records an alleged confession by Mathews that he and his wife lured the fisherman to the scene of the murder for the purpose of robbing him. The State contends a fatal fight ensued in which Crawford was clubbed down, his head during the fight or an automobile running injuries which later proved fatal.

GANDHI URGES MASS PROTEST

Bombay, India, April 3 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, through his newspaper "Young India," has authorized inviting all men and women of the salt land to Rondaday.

Gandhi today was only ten miles from Dandi, where he intends to break the laws in inauguration of his campaign to secure India independence.

He was said to have enrolled a thousand volunteers at Surat Wednesday and to have received a gift of $5500. A number of Parsi cotton mill owners met him there and offered to help on payment of the boycotting foreign cloth. He would stress the idea of boycotting more than production of hand woven khaddar.

The mission left disgruntled when Gandhi refused to speak to support the Indian mill interests.

Rum-Runner Slain by Border Patrol

El Paso, Tex., April 3 (AP)—The border claimed one Mexican today and will another, as liquor warfare flared again on the American border.

The battle occurred in the range land full twenty miles above Ysleta, Mexican border patrolmen surprised a liquor smuggling party.

Lowell Election Charges Discussed

Lowell, April 3 (AP)—Attorney Thomas H. Risden of the law firm of Brown, Risden & Brown, who was defeated by Mayor Thomas H. Risden in the last election, conferred today with Frederic A. Cratty of Post, Attys. Robert T. Bushnell, a staff member of the Boston Herald, and Frank J. Donahue, who has been active in local politics for several years.

The conference was held behind closed doors and a brief investigation is expected.

He has been found fit for exercise, golf, tennis, swimming, pool, baseball cage and a science and administration building.

U. S.-CANADA IN AUTO LAW PACT

Hamilton, Ont., April 3 (AP)—A plan for international legislation between Canada and the United States to provide for the prosecution of motorists guilty of breaking laws on foreign highways was announced today by George S. Henry, provincial minister of highways.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Hamilton Auto Club, he said that several provinces and many states were now framing reciprocal laws to protect citizens of citizens wanted on the other sides.

The international legislation, Mr. Henry said, is designed to catch the motorist who, while touring the other country, abuses hospitality or breaks the law with impunity.

MILLION GIVEN TO EXETER

Exeter, N. H., April 3 (AP)—A gift of $1,000,000 to Phillips Exeter academy from Col. William B. Thompson, head of Yonkers, N. Y., was announced today by Principal Lewis Perry.

It was the largest donation ever received by the academy. There are no restrictions on its use and Perry said he would let the trustees of the institution decide.

Thompson has been one of the academy's chief benefactors in past years.

He has given funds for the erection of the Thompson memorial pool, baseball cage and a science and administration building.

Hunt Kidnapers of Six-Year-Old Girl

Detroit, April 3 (AP)—The story of a group of Negroes and friends of several schoolmates were practically the only clues on which police of the Detroit metropolitan area were basing their search today for six-year-old Mary Suboch and her kidnapers.

The girl and her older brother, Joseph, were picked up by a strange man in an automobile while on their way home from school in Dearborn, Tuesday noon. They were driven about 40 miles before the boy was put out near the Detroit City Hall on the pretext of going to buy candy, Joseph said. At that point the trail of the kidnapers has been lost.

Bruening Wins on Vote, Perils Reich

Berlin, April 3 (AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, whose new cabinet scored its first victory in the Reichstag today, defeating a non-confidence motion, called a cabinet meeting immediately after adjournment to decide on his government's position.

He was reported to be concerned over the problem of obtaining a majority for the government's program and to have consulted his cabinet as to whether it would not be better after all to dissolve the Reichstag and have new elections.

POWER TRUST IN BIG DRIVE AT WORLD PARLEY

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

Washington, April 3—Highly organized and well financed machinery to spread American power trust propaganda on a colossal scale through an international meeting of the world power conference has been revealed.

Forty-nine countries are scheduled to be represented at this meeting, to be held in Berlin June 16 to 25. Prez Paul Von Hindenburg of Germany is honorary president.

A reception for the 4000 to 5000 Americans and foreigners is to be held in the Reichstag building with ensuing sessions in the State Opera House.

Accommodations for the American power delegates are de luxe, with an "official ship"—the Hamburg-American liner Resolute—to carry them to Germany, a copy of the American program obtained by Universal Service studies to gas bathing beaches of the Baltic, charming mediaeval towns and yacht racing at Kiel.

A $50,000 a year budget for the American committee of the conference has been guaranteed by the National Electric Light Association, chief propaganda agency of the power trust. The money is to be made up by the American power corporations, subsidiaries of the allied electrical equipment corporations and financial houses and from 310 memberships.

Through the power companies American consumers will then foot the bill, in accordance with unvarying practice, in electric rates. The Federal Trade Commission of Allegation has shown many contributions by the companies unfavorable are charged to "operating expenses."

Conference records since obtained by this commerce reveal the American wing of the conference as having been created and financed for the last six years almost exclusively by the power combines.

City Gives Work to 25 More Teamsters

The public works department put 25 additional teamster laborers to work today, of whom 23 were taken from the rolls of the soldiers' relief department where they had been receiving city aid. Earlier this week, 26 were taken off the lists of the soldiers' relief department and given city work at $30 a week.

APPROVE BILL FOR BUILDING PROGRAM

Washington, April 3 (AP)—Bills that would set up a board to plan for public building construction in times of depression were approved today by the Senate commerce committee and at the same time the Senate agricultural committee heard testimony that it was almost impossible to get white laborers to do certain kinds of farm labor.

The unemployment bills, approved were introduced by Senator Wagner, Democrat, of New York. They provided for an appropriation of $150,000,000 and also for facilities to collect information on unemployment.

Action was deferred on another measure by the New York Senator which would set up a federal employment agency.

Testimony as to farm labor conditions in the Southwest and West was given before the agriculture committee as it opened hearings on a resolution to authorize the appointment of a commission to study the farm labor problem. The measure was introduced by Chairman McNary of the committee at the request of the Federal Farm Board.

R. N. Wilson, of San Francisco, was the first witness and after he pictured the difficulty in obtaining farm labor he said statistics showed that common laborers were coming into the United States at the rate of 1700 a year.

Wilson testified California paid the highest monthly farm wage in the United States, contending that salary was not the reason white laborers could not be obtained for certain types of farm work.

"Any American citizen who is out of work and hungry ought to be made to work," Heflin asserted.

Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming, agreed that difficulty was experienced in getting white laborers to work in the beet fields while Senator Gould, Republican, Maine, commented that white laborers were hard to get in Maine to aid in potato harvesting.

Overalls of Many Patches Hid $204 in Cash

Hamburg, Ia., April 3 (AP)—The coat of many colors has been replaced by the overalls of many patches.

When members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church decided to raise money they bought a pair of overalls and conducted a sewing circle. Each member brought a patch for the denim garment, sewed it on, but before completing her stitching placed a bill or coin beneath the patch.

When the women finished their task, Rev. P. G. Pfaltzgraff, pastor was asked to don the garment. Then the patches were jerked loose, one by one, the total reached $204.

Diesel Engines O. K. in Transport Plane

Detroit, April 3 (AP)—The new Diesel airplane engine has demonstrated its adaptability on transport planes. The successful demonstration was held at the Ford airport yesterday by Leroy Manning and Captain L. M. Woolson, who made a test flight in a Ford tri-motored plane powered by the new type of oil burning engines.

The three engines afforded the transport ship 680 horsepower as compared with the 900 furnished by light fuel engines customarily used in the ship. Following the test it was announced that Diesel engines will be optional equipment on all Ford transport planes in the future.

BRITISH RULE TO CONTINUE IN PALESTINE

London, April 3 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald told the House of Commons today that the British government would continue to administer Palestine in accordance with the terms of the mandate as approved by the Council of the League of Nations.

The Prime Minister, who was replying to a question by former Premier Baldwin, said that administration was an international obligation from which there could be no question of receding.

"Under the terms of the mandate," continued the prime minister, "His Majesty's government is responsible for promoting the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people; it being clearly understood nothing should be done which might prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine for the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country.

"A double undertaking is involved with the Jewish people on the one hand and to the non-Jewish population of Palestine on the other, and it is the firm resolve of His Majesty's government to give effect in equal measure to both parts of the Balfour declaration and do equal justice to all sections of the population in Palestine."

LOVE SPURNED, YOUTH HELD IN PLOT

New York, April 3 (AP)—A spurned lover who on four occasions hired gangsters to mar the beauty of the girl he loved, only to be double-crossed each time, today was in the toils of the law.

Wallace Downer, 28-year-old former bank clerk, in a confession, said he determined on revenge after Miss Martha Kranquist, 35-year-old housemaid, had spurned his attentions.

On three occasions, at $100 a try, he said, he hired gangsters to ruin the apartment of Miss Marion Weil, where Miss Kranquist was employed, with the understanding that during the robbery the gangsters should find it necessary to slash his one-time sweetheart.

On each occasion the gangsters accepted Downer's money, robbed the apartment of what loot they could find, but left Martha unscathed.

Undiscouraged, Downer tried once more. Tipped off by their undercover agents, the police trapped the latest trio of gangsters and they told the story of the spurned lover in search of revenge.

auxiliary warships, were as follows:

1—Japan reserves the right to maintain her demand for a seventy per cent. heavy cruiser ratio at the next conference.

2—Japan reserves the right to lay down a certain number of new submarines in order to keep her dockyards busy, although the agreed total of 52,700 tons will not be exceeded.

3—Agreement on battleships must be considered an integral part of the compromise.

4—Japan will not be bound by the agreement to any joint words 1936.

The tripartite agreement represents the first real achievement of the London conference since its convocation on Jan. 21. Previous to complete collapse on several occasions, the agreement between America, Britain and Japan is said to represent a step of prime importance in the interest of naval limitation.

Announcement of the agreement was made following a meeting of more than an hour between the chief delegates of Britain, America and Japan.

In the meantime it was learned authoritatively that the political negotiations aimed at satisfying France's security demands were proceeding favorably.

One of the most important developments, and a matter that is today causing the delegates some concern, was the statement of the French delegation that it is political agreement is reached between France and Great Britain increasing the provisions for international security, they will then suggest that all five powers readjust the figures in their existing naval programs.

This move on the part of the French is considered quite shrewd, inasmuch as they realize they would be asked how much they were willing to cut from their program in return for a political agreement with Britain.

Premier Tardieu has signified his intention of coming here for the week-end, and the move proposal doubtless is a step in preparation of what the French premier will have to talk about.

AT 1/3 OFF

—Just Because the Merchandise in Those Departments Smells of Smoke From a Small Fire in Adjoining Property a Week Ago Today

Not a single piece from these stocks reserved . . . Not a single exception . . . Everything perfect . . . Comprising our entire regular stocks, all perfectly desirable except for just a faint odor of smoke . . . Nothing touched by water or flame. (The few things damaged by sprinkleheads and handling have been bought from us by the insurance company.)

All Our Silk and Muslin Underwear . . . . at 1/3 off
Gay lilting underwear for smart young things, even the delectable bridal satins like those displayed in the window when the fire broke out, staple underwear for the more serious minded, aristocratic evening underwear—all at 1/3 off.

All Our House Dresses and Nurses' or Maids' Uniforms at 1/3 off
Nurses' uniforms, cotton and silk pongee morning dresses for housewives, gay little dresses young business women will buy to slip on after hours, and maids' uniforms, all at 1/3 off.

All Our Negligees and Pajamas . . . . . at 1/3 off
1/3 off the smart new lounging and beach pajamas, like those we were modeling in a fashion show when the fire broke out! 1/3 off every business-like bathrobe, collegiate lounging robe, bridal satin and lace negligee in the section.

All Our Infants' and Children's Shoes . . . . at 1/3 off
Even the little shoes, we had ready to sell at special prices at 1/3 off, every last shiny new shoe in the "Shoe Tree," ready for some child's Easter, all at a new reduction of 1/3 off.

All Our Infants' Wear . . . . . at 1/3 off
1/3 off every blanket and hand-made dress and accessory, everything in the Layette room, every perky little dress and hat, and coat and wash suit, every gift, many of them as new as crocuses, all at 1/3 off!

All Our New Spring Corsets . . . . . at 1/3 off
All the interesting modern foundation garments, girdles and brassieres, standard brands, including Vogue, Nemoflex, Royal Worcester, Lily of France, Bon Ton, all the garments designed to give the right beginning for the new spring suit or belted coat, all the expensive and beautiful girdles you have coveted when they were at normal prices, reduced 1/3. Of course in a sale like this we cannot fit corsets.

Remember, with 1-3 Off, the Sale Is More Exciting than the Fire!

BORDER GUARD SHOT IN BATTLE WITH RUNNERS

Detroit, Mich., April 3 (AP)—Gordon Marsden, 32, customs border patrolman, was wounded slightly last night in a battle between rum-runners and federal officers on the Detroit river. A shotgun slug entered Marsden's hand.

Marsden and his companion, K. C. Rudd, reported that the rum-runners opened fire on the government boat after they were ordered to halt while attempting to dash across the river to the Michigan shore in a speed boat. The officers said they retaliated with 10 shots but the smugglers escaped to Canada.

Marsden said he was on patrol with Rudd in a government boat when they noticed a black speed boat gliding swiftly through the water toward the American shore. The government boat sped alongside and Rudd flashed a search-light into the rum-runners' craft.

At that moment, Marsden said, the smugglers opened fire with sawed-off shotguns. One bullet entered Marsden's hand. The rum-runners escaped to Canada amid a hail of bullets.

Two Arrested After Girl Leaps from Car

Two young men were locked up at the Central sq. station in Cambridge as the result of police inquiries after a girl was alleged to have jumped out of a machine on Memorial drive, near Brookline st. The girl, who gave her name as Miss Mildred Holmes, 20, of Summer st., Hyde Park, was treated for minor injuries at Cambridge Relief Hospital.

The arrested men were Peter Keefe, 29, of Erie st., Cambridge, arrested charged with drunkenness, and Donald Darwin, 20, of Columbus ave., Boston, charged with driving without a license.

Government Forces to Quit Nanking

London, April 3 (AP)—A Reuter dispatch from Shanghai today said that Government forces at Nanking were preparing to evacuate Nanan and would fall back on strongly prepared positions centering at Yenchowfu.

Tsinan is on the Hwang Ho. Yenchowfu lies to the southwest. A representative of central Yen Hsishan today announced that Yen, so-called model Governor of Shensi, would begin a punitive expedition against Chiang Kai-Shek, President of the Nationalist Government, at Nanking.

Requiem Today for Rev. T. L. O'Reilly

A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated in the Mission Church today, at 10 o'clock, for the late Rev. Thomas L. O'Reilly, S.S.S. R.

More than 2000 persons paid tribute to Fr. O'Reilly as his body lay in state at the Mission Church. A steady line of people filed past the casket of the priest, who was widely known as a missionary throughout the East. He died Monday night at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Black Smallpox in Mexico City

Mexico City, April 3 (AP)—"Black" smallpox has broken out in Mexico City and the surrounding districts and wholesale vaccinations are in order.

Thousands of school children daily are being inoculated. When sanitary authorities went to the nearby town of Cuajinalpa to vaccinate the population it was necessary to vaccinate many inhabitants by force. One brigade was stoned as it left the town.

'Anything to Make the Ladies Happy

Savannah, April 3—If precedent set by a diplomatic census supervisor here is followed there's a way out of embarrassment for the ladies.

He permitted an objector to give the date of her birth instead of her age at last birthday.

SCIENCE AFTER RIBBON KILLER OF WOMAN

Chicago, April 3 (AP)—A modern scientific crime laboratory threw its resources into the search for the ribbon slayer of Mrs. Mildred Helsing today after police had almost abandoned hope of solving the mystery through the usual methods.

None of the clues found by police seemed to be any aid toward finding the person who strangled the young wife with a satin ribbon Tuesday. Even the black ribbon found around her neck at first considered a valuable one, gave no hint of the slayer. Two other pieces, exactly like the death ribbon, were found in the apartment.

The recently organized criminal detection laboratory of Northwestern University was called into the case and today made an unusual microscopic study involving the suspects police have rounded up as well as the slain woman's husband, Reuben Helsing.

Dr. Clarence Muehlberger of the Northwestern laboratory took scrapings from beneath the fingernails of the dead woman and those of her husband and the suspects; he also scraped bits of skin from each person. In the struggle between the woman and her slayer, Dr. Muehlberger believes, each must have scraped off skin of the other and that, if his microscope shows it, the specimens the killer will be found.

George Riley, negro janitor in the apartment house in which the Helsings lived, who still in custody today. He continued his denial of any knowledge of the crime.

Strangled

With a piece of ribbon tied about her neck, the body of Mrs. Mildred Hesling was found in her Chicago apartment. Science has joined police in hunt for her slayer. (I. N. R. photo.)

Rain May Check Big Virginia Brush Fires

Washington, April 3 (AP)—Rain that was falling today was expected to put an end to forest fires that have laid to waste more than 2000 acres of land in nearby Maryland and Virginia, and have kept scores of volunteer firemen busy for two days.

The Lock House at the Great Falls dam in Maryland was destroyed by the flames and the spread of the fire resulted in a call being sent for help from the District of Columbia.

The Weather

For Boston and Vicinity: Increasing cloudiness followed by rain late tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature; variable winds becoming moderate, east to south. The minimum temperature tonight will be near 34.

For Southern New England: Increasing cloudiness followed by rain tonight and Friday; not quite so cold in Connecticut and western Massachusetts tonight; variable winds becoming moderate to fresh southeast.

For Northern New England—Increasing cloudiness tonight, followed by rain or snow in New Hampshire and Vermont Friday; rain or snow not much change in temperature; moderate to fresh, west and southwest winds.

For Eastern New York: Rain tonight and possibly Friday morning; slightly warmer in central and north portions tonight; fresh east and southeast winds.

OCEAN FORECAST

Steamers departing today for Hampton ports will have moderate southeast winds and overcast weather to the Grand Banks, followed by rain.

SOVIET BACKS DOWN; GIVES IN TO PEASANTS

Moscow, April 3 (AP)—The government today announced a number of sweeping concessions to peasants who remain loyal to the collective farm movement or return to collective farms following the recent exodus which resulted from the new policy to appease them.

The privileges, which are intended to pave the government's fundamental agricultural collectivization scheme from any possibility of failure, include:

Exemption from taxation for a period of five years all cattle, horses, hogs and poultry belonging both to individual farmers and members of the collective farms.

Postponement until the end of the harvest of all outstanding debts of collective farmers.

Cancellation of all fines and court judgments imposed upon such farmers before April 1 for failure to carry out the government's agricultural plans.

Extension of credit by the government of 500,000,000 rubles (about $250,000,000) to the collective farms.

No such far reaching concessions have been made to the peasantry in the 13 years of the revolution, and they are considered here to mark a milestone in communistic policy.

Flaming Meteor Blamed for Blaze

New Haven, Ct., April 3 (AP)—A flaming piece of hard substance, believed to be a small meteor, fell in a yard today, setting the grass afire. It resembled a piece of coal and weighed about two ounces.

The substance will be turned over to Prof. Ford of the Yale school of geology for analysis.

Photos Confirm New Planet's Existence

Cairo, Egypt, April 3 (AP)—A photograph taken at the Helwan observatory confirmed, it was stated today, existence of the transNeptune planet recently discovered in the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Photographs of the planet were taken March 17, 24 and 27, the body appearing on the sensitive plates after an hour's exposure in each case.

Horton Elected M. E. Secretary

New London, Ct., April 3—Lyman G. Horton of Providence, R. I., was elected secretary of the New England southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church here.

The Rev. Clarence True Wilson told the 200 delegates in the five-day conference that the prohibition hearings at Washington were proving a boomerang to the wets.

SHE SAID 'NO!' TO CENSUS MAN

Cleveland, April 3 (AP)—One housewife who, according to Enumerator Estelle Smith, didn't think much of Uncle Sam's census questions, was under suspicion today after an hour's exposure in each case.

Mrs. Smith declared that Mrs. Mary Hartwell could see no reason for answering 30 query questions and added that she had committed no crime. Harmer Cressie Superviser Pringle got the same answer when he telephoned Mrs. Hartwell, he said, and decided to make her an example for several others' houses, wives.

At Mrs. Hartwell's home it was said the shouts of the indignant mad, for it.

The law provides that any person who shall refuse or willfully neglect to answer any of the questions shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The penalty provided is not more than $100 or 60 days in prison or both. The punishment for false answers is greater. Violators may be fined $500 and imprisoned for one year.

Gets the 3 Best Things in Life

When all a girl needs is a clear smooth skin, plenty of energy and a stomach which does not deprive her of the cake, candy and good food she wants, just keep down the excessive stomach acids, like pretty Evelyn Wheeler, 101 West 52nd St., New York City.

"I got the surprise of my life when I started taking Acidine," says Miss Wheeler. "Whenever I ate anything rich my stomach got so acid I'd have headaches and get sick. That's all over now. Acidine sweetens my stomach so easily, I never have to worry. The best part about it is its taste. I like it."

Sick, sour stomach, burning sensation in the throat, excessive thirst, skin rash, come from too much acid when the stomach doesn't digest the starchy food and sweets you eat. Get a package of Acidine at any drug store and see how quick, pleasant and inexpensive it is.

These New Salts Are Wonderful

That's Just What She Said—Just What He Said

AND A MILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

When you take vitalizing Kruschen Salts for a few days that old indolent armchair feeling deserts you—it doesn't matter how fat you are—the urge for activity has got you—and you're stepping lively.

And best of all you like this activity—you walk a couple of miles and enjoy it—you thought you'd never dance again but you find you're getting as spry as ever—the old tingling active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already put into your body to keep you alive—if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

Why not try one 85 cent bottle of these rejuvenating salts—a bottle lasts 4 weeks and one bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel young and spryer—more energetic—you'll enjoy life—every minute of it.

As one stout woman wrote: "Kruschen Salts are worth their weight in gold to me."

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy—keep your stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition—free your system from harmful toxins and acids.

All druggists sell bots of Kruschen Salts.

Mrs. "Al" Smith Recovers From Fall Down Stairs

New York, April 3—Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the former governor and presidential candidate is resting at her home today after a fall in which she narrowly escaped serious injury.

Mrs. Alfred E. Smith

The erstwhile first lady of the state was descending the stairs in the Smith Fifth ave. home when in some unexplained manner her foot caught and she pitched headlong to the floor. She landed on her forehead but she had almost reached the landing and sustained a few bruises about the head.

Word was quickly flashed to Smith at his office. He rushed home to find that the injury was not as serious as at first thought.

Barcelona Bomb Plotters Pardoned by King Alfonso

Madrid, April 3—In a general manifesto King Alfonso has declared a royal amnesty toward those who participated in the bomb outrages of 1925.

King Alfonso

The move means freedom for many prisoners now serving indeterminate sentences for an unsuccessful attempt to bomb a royal train on the outskirts of Barcelona.

At the time the king was making a tour of the realm, and was receiving the greetings of his subjects en route. The radicals were quickly overpowered, arrested, tried and sentenced.

Maria Corda May Rewed Her Former Husband

London, April 3—Maria Corda, the beautiful Hungarian blonde movie actress who recently divorced Alexander Korda, Hollywood director, has created a stir in London by her declaration the only second husband for her is her ex-husband.

Maria Corda

At a reception at the Park Lane Hotel Miss Corda told her friends she will remarry her former husband if he is of the same mind. The divorce was precipitated by her husband's refusal to allow her to leave Hollywood, Miss Corda said. She added: "I had to get away from Hollywood. I simply could not stand the film atmosphere any longer."

Mendell, Endurance Flier, Held as 'Air Smuggler'

Mexicali, Lower California, April 2 (AP)—Instead of enjoying "easy money" promised for participation in an alien smuggling scheme, Loren Mendell, endurance flier, today was a prisoner in the Mexican jail, his luxurious cabin plane confiscated.

Loren Mendell

Mendell was arrested by border patrolmen when he set his plane down near Black Butte, 27 miles south of Mexicali. With the officials were two Japanese who, the officers said, ha deonfessed they were in Black Butte awaiting an airplane to take them to the United States.

Cosgrave Returns to His Post in Ireland

Dublin, April 3 (INS)—After a brief interval of five days William T. Cosgrave returned today to the presidency of the Irish Free State executive council, his policies vindicated and his position stronger than at any time since he first took office in 1922.

Mr. Cosgrave was re-elected by the Dail Eireann by a vote of 80 to 65.

DRY? MODIFY? REPEAL?

Boston American Prohibition Forum—$500 in Weekly Prizes

For Repeal

HERE'S A DRY FOR REPEAL

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am a dry, in favor of repeal. The apparent inconsistency of that statement can be explained as follows:

I am tired, weary and disgusted listening to these rescued derelicts and would-be drunkards complaining and grumbling about prohibition.

The average non-drinking man can easily outdo the average drinking man in any field of achievement. Let these weis have their liquor; let them get as drunk as they wish as often as they like and let them suffer the consequences. We who have sense enough to leave liquor alone will benefit by their indulgence.

I repeat, I am a dry, in favor of repeal.

PAUL R. JOHNSON.

13 Elm st., Hyde Park.

WE FACE DESTRUCTION!

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Let us be frank. Prohibition and its resultant evils can be tolerated no longer. The path of graft, vice, bribery, bootlegging and the excess drinking of poisonous liquor can only lead to economic and moral destruction.

Repeal of this farcical law must come for a twofold purpose. First,—to annihilate the power of the vice rings which hold our cities in their grip, and second, to bring to us alcohol pure and undefiled; alcohol taken from pure grain, not from paint remover.

Among the younger generation the drinking of bootleg liquor, a thing heretofore unheard of, is increasing alarmingly. Consistent use of this drug by them will only draw a veil of stupidity over otherwise intelligent minds.

Pure alcohol, if taken in mild forms, has little if any effect of a harmful nature on our systems, physicians tell us. Alcohol, that is not alcohol, but poison, can tear down the most perfect human machine ever built in the short space of a few months.

If we must have drink, why not have it with a government seal that certifies as to its purity? THOMAS J. MORAN.

187 Sheridan ave., Medford.

TEN REASONS FOR REPEAL

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

It has always been conceded that any law that cannot be enforced should remain on the statute boks but a short time, for such a law leads to the non-observance of others. It must be evident to people who are inclined to be fair that the present prohibition law can never be enforced.

First, because it robs us, as a people, of our right to obtain good liquor for medicinal purposes.

Second, because many men high up in business and social circles will have their "bitters" at any price.

Third, because of the tremendous profits of the bootlegger many men have left legitimate employment and gone to making or "running" liquor.

Fourth, because it is ruining some of our young people.

Fifth, because much of the liquor consumed by the ordinary individual is of very poor quality.

Sixth, because conditions are worse all over the country than they were when we had the open saloon.

Seventh, because of the large amount of money that goes to Canada every year.

Eighth, because of the disgraceful scenes when officers are chasing and shooting at rum runners.

Ninth, because we should not be deprived of good liquor to please those who do not use it.

Tenth, because some of the concoctions drank are often deadly in their effects.

It was alcohol, externally applied, that saved my dear companion's life many years ago, and I shall never give it the cold shoulder.

EMORY CHARLES BEAN,

518 Holly Ave., Manchester, N. H.

TOO SUDDEN

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I do not favor the Eighteenth Amendment and enforcement, as lined up at present. It is too sudden and harsh a change for this country.

A proper solution might be to have laws made ahead that would, step by step, over a period of years, bring about a gradual change toward an ideal condition. These laws to be subject to changes from time to time by proper and competent bodies of citizens.

An ideal condition might be neither completely "wet" nor completely "dry," but largely dry. Make it very difficult for certain ones to obtain liquor (children under definite age, certain criminals, those whose acts would endanger lives and property, etc.). Have public places (not saloons) under strict supervision, and where liquor may be obtained and drunk while there only.

Have very light beer and wine allowable for people to drink at home if they wish. One of the most important benefits would be from teaching children in all schools not to drink liquor. (Don't overdo this).

F. W. C.

451 Broad st., East Weymouth, Mass.

GIVE 'EM BEER

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and let the American people have light wine and beer as they have everything else.

DENNIS CAREY.

Derry N. H.

IT'S A JOKE!

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

The prohibition act, now a national farce, should be repealed. It has now been in force well over a decade, been tried and found wanting and is the "mirth of a nation."

If repealed, countless unemployed, who in these so-called "good times" are jobless would again be put to work.

The government expenditure yearly for enforcement of this act, an endless task, is stupendous. The internal revenue derived from the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors would more than offset this unnecessary burden.

A revival of barrooms, rather than speakeasies, would eradicate to a certain extent the practice of the younger generation in becoming shrewd. Police protection exact, and why not, attribute more crimes directly to liquor today than was the case years ago. The answer is synthetic gin and its co-partners, good and bad natured alcohol.

Man will ever drink where he can find it. Why not the best for governmental gains rather than slow poison for profiteering bootlegger? Hash the whole nation and other countries as well laughed at Uncle Sam long enough? I am not a drinking man; merely give my viewpoint of the matter.

W. E. BRANDON.

Charlestown.

WANTS A VOTE

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am for the repeal of the prohibition law in its present form.

Any system would be better than the one in force. As this law was never voted on by the people at the polls it never should be enforced by city police.

Let us have the question on the ballot and let us vote at the next election.

And in that way everyone will know what it is all about, which the don't know at present.

MRS. MARGARET GUISPIN.

179 Fayette st., Lowell.

DRY LAW CRIMES

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am a woman who never took strong drink, but I believe there is no way to stop bootleggers and crime of all kinds but to give them the liquor in moderation.

Bootleggers are at the bottom of all this graft and murders.

I am in favor of modification.

MRS. A. TURNER.

7 Flagg st., Boston.

LOVE—LIQUOR—LONESOMENESS

LADIES of LEISURE at RKO KEITH'S Next Saturday

Why I Am Dry—

By Bishop Wm. F. Anderson of Methodist Episcopal Church

BECAUSE—"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

Because—I love men, woman and children. The human values are the supreme values of earth. The liquor traffic preys upon these values, relentlessly, cruelly, diabolically.

Because—I love my country and its flag. The liquor traffic has no regard for law, order or decency. It is the sum of all villainies. It has been trying to get a strangle hold on our government. This would be an unspeakable disaster to popular government all over the world.

Because—Prohibition ministers to prosperity among all classes. It is as well observed as any other law enacted against liquor. The Wets will regard no law, State or Federal against drink. The turning of moneys formerly spent for drink into legitimate channels of trade and industry.

Bishop Wm. F. Anderson

Because—Drink makes highways unsafe for travel. The time is now when the automobile authorities in every state should follow the example of the railroads and refuse license for driving to every man and woman who drinks. A machine age cannot exist jointly in any country with the uncontrolled liquor traffic.

Because—Almighty God has a higher destiny for the human race than can possibly be attained under a regime of appetite and avarice.

For Modification

A COP VIEWS PROHIBITION

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Why I am in favor of modification.

I am in favor of modification of the Eighteenth Amendment in so far as allowing light wines and beer with sufficient alcoholic strength to take them out of the dish-water class, to be sold under either city or state supervision.

The worn expression of the fanatical drys (The working man is better off than he ever was, he has his radio and his little car), that may in part be true, but those that did drink still drink the rotten stuff sold by the bootlegger. He may not be drinking as much because it costs more, but it is doing him much more harm.

There is no doubt that the younger generation, girls and boys, are drinking more than ever. No party is a success without drink, usually supplied from the pocket flask which is always present.

Mothers and fathers have not the control of their children that they once had in regard to drinking because they all get a decided kick out of outwitting the parents and the cops.

I know that because I am a cop and I see as well as hear things that do not get into print.

The true conditions of drink and the manner in which they use to outwit the authorities to obtain it, gives them a real thrill, it appeals to their sense of superior ability to beat the law. People will go to places to obtain drink that formerly they would not go near just to be in the racket and to be a good fellow to flaunt and trample on a law that they know is not wanted and impossible of enforcement.

It is a positive fact that all the so-called good prohibition has done for the lower classes has been clouded and overshadowed by the introduction of crime into the ranks of officials who have been entrusted to enforce prohibition.

Take away the temptation of graft and those sources that allow officials to act as ministers on Sundays and as a leach on week-days. Remove the chance of the thrill of flaunting the law. Give the people of each state their own rights. Then the Government will go a long ways to settle what is becoming more and more to be the biggest political issue in the history of this country. I am for modification, states' rights and sensible temperance.

W. ROBERT SMITH.

19 Allston st., Dorchester.

For Prohibition

PROHIBITION LAW A 'MARVEL'

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I firmly believe in the Eighteenth Amendment, and am strongly in favor of the continuation of Prohibition. It has been a marvelous thing and a noble experience for the people of the United States during the past 10 years. The majority of people, particularly women, want the country to remain dry, and this agitation has been started by those who have never had an opportunity of coming in contact with the poorer class.

The poor working man's family has benefited greatly, and while it has not been 100 per cent successful, the good derived from it repays for much suffering and want endured before prohibition.

Conditions are certainly better, and if there is drinking, we do not see it for there are no saloons at every corner, which in itself was a dreadful example to young people.

The percentage of children taken from drunken parents by Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children is considerably less.

The drinking man before prohibition now has other interests and uses for his money,—a bank account, an automobile, a radio, amusements, and he is enjoying a longer and more healthful life.

Long may Prosperity and Progress continue to take the place of liquor. ELLA LEARY.

31 South Russell st., Boston.

CITES SOCIETY'S RIGHT

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Society has claimed for itself the right always to protect itself against a controllable evil that may injure an innocent member. On this principle, society has prohibited the traffic of opium and certain drugs, the obscene and salacious in literature. On this principle, society has claimed the right to isolate contagious diseases, and has protected itself against irresponsible persons.

How fatuous is the argument of personal liberty that might be made for all these conditions! Personal liberty? Yes, insofar as that liberty does not infringe upon the rights and privileges of all others in society.

If the liquor traffic could have persuaded society that liquor would do no injury except to the persons who imbibed, Prohibition would never have become a law. We are living in a complex and mechanical world where the lives of a hundred million are interdependent. In such a world today, every drinker becomes a potential liability against the safety and happiness of his fellowmen.

Personal liberty? Yes! Every man has the liberty to become an asset to society but not a potential liability. This is the principle that underlies Prohibition.

The enforcement of the law is a subject apart from the law itself. If a thing is right in principle, it will ultimately prevail. K. A. H.

Church st., Ware, Mass.

WOULD KEEP LAW

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

The Eighteenth Amendment is a law that is aimed at the greatest foe the human race has to contend with. Intoxicating liquor once it gets into the control of the human system, makes a man commit all kinds of crime, and, in fact, many a good man has gone to jail because he could not control himself after taking too many drinks. It is impossible to drink liquor to excess and hold a position in the business world. They tell us that a drunken man is a menace in traffic and even the advocates in its favor are among the first to get out of sight of the poor unfortunate who has become intoxicated.

Very few laws are made but what there are those who can find flaws, and when the open saloon was flourishing it was very easy to pass condemnation on the way the weekly pay envelope was cashed in the barroom. The advocates have never fully recovered from the effects of the shock they received when the Eighteenth Amendment swept the country. I am sure that this law enforcement of the liquor question should never be taken from the statute books.

LAW A 'BLESSING'

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Money is the root of all evil. One of those roots of money has sent out great shoots of evil propaganda trying to influence the public mind against prohibition. When they built the Panama Canal, it seemed impossible to do away with the fever germs there. A man with the great courage, with the help of equally courageous men, succeeded in making the Panama Canal disease free.

Sale of intoxicating liquor is now criminal. This is the law of the land. The law is one which will do more for the future generation than any other civic arrangement on the liquor question.

Five years from now the inventions for the common good of all will have increased, public affairs will be better, because of this sensible prohibition law.

ANN WHITE SAWYER.

The Rainbow's End is within Your reach

DID you ever feel so desperate you wanted to jump out of a window? That's the wrong end of the rainbow.

Ill health is a burden on body, mind and friends. But Nature never fails to signal her dangers. Lack of appetite, flabby flesh, loss of strength and skin troubles is a warning from Nature. This is her way of pleading for help.

The basic requirement for good health is rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments.

It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

A CLEAR SKIN COMES FROM WITHIN

When S.S.S. is indicated in your case you owe it to yourself and friends to try it.

If you desire firm flesh, a glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessings of health you must keep your blood in good condition.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

While attending a Sunday forum in the Back Bay, I heard a speaker describing what happens in China. Among other things that struck me, was this:

"In China a woman has three obediences: When young, she obeys her parents, when married, her husband and when a widow, her son." I think this should be better known and proclaimed in Boston. It is a splendid idea and the best definition of female obedience in the long run. TIMOTHY U. TRACY.

Keep Out of The Hague and Geneva

Editor Boston American:

The attitude of John Adams and John Quincy Adams on the subject of American "entanglements" in Europe is surveyed by a writer in the Boston Evening American with various quotations to emphasize the doctrine that we should confine our responsible relations to this hemisphere. This is to urge our keeping out of the international agencies at The Hague and Geneva and out of any important commitments at the London Naval Conference.

All the citations from John Adams and John Quincy Adams are correct. We can find essentially the same in Washington and Jefferson. They are expressions of a principle as to foreign policy, which at that time was right and necessary. When we were a young, small, weak and an experimental republic, struggling to get upon our feet, we could not possibly mix up with the chronic rows between England and France.

We no longer live in a world of two hemispheres, but in one round world. All nations are interdependent. When John Quincy Adams signed the treaty of Ghent, it took us three weeks to learn of it. A cable would have prevented the battle of New Orleans, fought actually after the treaty of peace had been concluded. A pistol shot in the Balkans in 1914 pulls two million of our boys across the Atlantic to fight in France. The ocean is no longer a barrier, but a bridge. It was natural that the President of the United States should, at Paris in 1919, sponsor the League of Nations, and that our Elihu Root should be the most influential member of the commission that organized the World Court.

If John Adams and John Quincy Adams were alive today, both of them would be up-to-date men and pioneers for this time, as they were pioneers for their own different time. Both of them hated war and did all they could, with their power and crude machinery, to avoid and prevent it.

Declares Women Equal to Any Man

Editor Boston American:

The letter from Mrs. Wallace of Springfield gave me a good, long laugh. How can any woman, especially a married woman, understand men so little? Has she ever heard one man (unless he were soliciting votes), admit that the idea of giving women the vote was anything but a huge joke or a tragedy?

And as to education, they seem to consider it an affront to their dignity when a mere woman wins a degree.

Was she ever a member of a class of boys and girls, when one of the girls won a scholarship? In 1910 I was one of three girls who got the highest rank in the entrance examinations for Foxcroft Academy. My first experience with masculine jealousy was gained during the term that followed, and has never been forgotten. Men have not changed, but women have more power today. LILA DORR BRADY.

Boston Has Greater Number of Students

Editor Boston American:

Boston is the "Hub" of education in the United States. There are 9685 foreign students in the United States, according to the last report of the Institute of International Education. These come from 100 countries and attend 245 different colleges and universities.

But here's the news, that Greater Boston claims nearly half of this number. Tell this to the visitors of Boston this summer from the Pacific coast. They are lacking in this information.

Would Force Pay Raise on Goodwin

Editor Boston American:

I agree with Representative Martin Hays of Allston, who suggested a bill calling for an increase in Frank A. Goodwin's salary as finance commissioner. Mr. Goodwin failed to appear, stating that he was satisfied with his present salary. I think Mr. Goodwin should accept the increase. He is worthy of it. A friend and fighter for the general public.

In the event the bill for state insurance for automobiles goes into effect the public owes practically everything to the untiring efforts of Frank A. Goodwin. Accept the increase in salary Mr. Goodwin, the general public pays the salaries, and would be glad to think that they were helping a man who in return is working for them.

Just a Reminder on the Constitution

Editor Boston American:

People in this city in their public addresses before different civic associations, place such emphasis upon the Constitution of the United States that it is well to remind them that it was not handed down on Mt. Sinai by the Lord God of Hosts. It was not revealed law. It is no final cause. It is human means. It lacks alike perfection and perfectibility." That is what Prof. Howard K. McBain of the Department of Constitutional Law, Columbia University says.

It is a good reminder, when some people make a fetish of this Constitution. People cannot be made good by law. Nothing that is human is infallible. Let us remember this during these present controversial times.

"Be Kind to Animals" Week Is Coming

Editor Boston American:

May I ask your readers to observe "Be Kind to Animals Week" April 21-26? Humane Sunday is April 27.

The Boston celebration will take place in the Community Church. We would like to see newspapers take more interest in the observance of this day by calling attention to its significance in an editorial, and then we want to feel that children in the formative years of their lives will have this subject brought before them in an interesting way.

Women seem to be more interested in this matter than men. We hope to enlist more men this year. MARY C. CRAIG.

APPETITES MUST BE AROUSED

Essential Foods "Go Begging" When Lacking in Flavor

Foods rich in vitamins, minerals and roughage often become tiresome to the taste. This may be due to incorrect cooking or the fact that the food itself is lacking in flavor.

Vegetables are outstanding in the class of foods that "go begging." Spinach is rejected because its flavor is too mild. Tomatoes are often "turned down" because their flavor is too sharp. Carrots and peas, when too old, or cooked too long, become tasteless.

By using sugar to season these vegetables as they cook, their flavor will be noticeably improved. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow. It is surprising how this combination will heighten, for example, the mild flavor of spinach and pleasantly soften the sharp taste of tomatoes.

Doctors and dietitians are heartily in favor of this use of sugar in making essential foods more pleasant to the taste—not only of adults but of children. They also approve the serving of wholesome desserts as a means to introduce variety as well as nourishment in the diet. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

DAILY ANTIQUE

—No. 62—

Today there is pictured an old New England wrought iron ladle of a type which had a distinct use on the farm and in the home in early days. The ladle, which is more than three feet long, was used to dip maple sap. Its special function was in dipping crude potash out of the pearl ashes from great iron pots. The potash, or common lye, was made from wood ashes treated with water and allowed to go through evaporating processes.

The old ladle is owned by T. G. Washburn, and is among an interesting collection in his unique office at 1 Creek sq. In case you have never heard of Creek sq., it is worth a visit. It is the site of several structures built on orders of John Hancock to furnish work for unemployed. The square is really a narrow thoroughfare between Blackstone and Union sts. in the market district.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

PLAYS MUSIC TO PAINT PICTURE

By NANCY BREWSTER

A modern miracle that may revolutionize the teaching of music and of art was demonstrated for the first time in Boston by Gertrude De Croix and Ray De Croix at the Hotel Victoria, under the auspices of the New England Women's Press Association.

On a white screen set up on a grand piano Miss De Croix painted a sunset in all the colors of the spectrum by playing her own compositions on the piano, aided by special lighting arrangements.

The effect she played in her newly discovered "color key" was of constantly changing colors, blending into each other gradually.

Scientifically explained, the demonstration was mobile color produced by musical vibrations of the three primary colors in light—red, green and blue—on wave lengths of sound similar to radio reproductions. What is heard over the radio was visualized in color so that the usual order of nature was reversed and one sees sound and hears color.

Bass notes produce heavier colors than treble notes, and loud tones intensify colors more than soft ones, which appear in pastels of cream, lavender, pink, jade and silver. This variation was explained by the musician to be due, not to the strength of the vibration, but to the length of the sound wave that produced the shade seen on the screen.

Miss De Croix plays neither jazz nor classical music, but uses a scale which she has worked out in experimenting with color tones. It is more nearly like a minor key than anything before known, yet is very different from the academic do, re, mi.

In conjunction with this demonstration, its opposite is "black light," or fluorescent ultra violet rays was given by George L. Hall of the U. S. Arts Light Laboratories of Boston. Hall showed how this light, thrown on a white object, projects beautiful colors invisible to the naked eye until so projected in a dark room.

This program was given under direction of the program chairman, Miss Isabella Holland.

DORCHESTER JEWISH WELFARE CENTER

An exceptionally large art exhibit, the sixth annual event of its kind, sponsored by the Welfare Center, will be open at 21 Bradshaw st., until April 12. Included is a set of landscapes by Adolph E. Tweeds Are Smart and Practical for Wee Young Men

BOYS of 8, 10 and 12 years have emerged from their earlier desires to be dressed like Indians in war-paint and feathers, or to emulate the brass buttons of our minions of the law, and their ideas about clothes have become very definite, masculine and surprisingly conservative.

Any deviation from clothes the "other fellows" are wearing calls forth loud protests, and fond mothers may as well let him follow the conventional masculine styles, for boys are very positive and decided in their wish to be inconspicuous and conform to style.

SINCE outdoors is always calling to active small boys, a tweed suit, topcoat and cap is a practical and smart choice. The outfit pictured is of English homespun tweed, the wide shorts, slightly cut-away coat, topcoat and peaked cap all match, but, of course, the cap and topcoat would be quite correct if contrasting.

A shirt, with soft attached collar, four-in-hand tie, gray golf stockings, with turn-over cuffs in Scotch plaid, and oxford shoes complete a very smart outfit for the eight-year-old.

The other outfit pictured is for a boy of 10 or 12, and appropriate for school or play.

A BROWN tweed suit, with knickers and single breasted two-button coat. The sweater and golf socks are in harmonizing tones, and the socks should be worn outside the cuffs of the knickers. The outfit is hailed as the typical suit for a well-dressed schoolboy. If the boy wants to play he can take off his coat and still be correctly dressed.

Knickers must be comfortably full, and cut long enough to fasten below the knee. And no boy has ever complained of too many or too capacious pockets in which I store many peculiar but precious objects, such as marbles, string, fish-hooks or the inner workings of a gift watch.

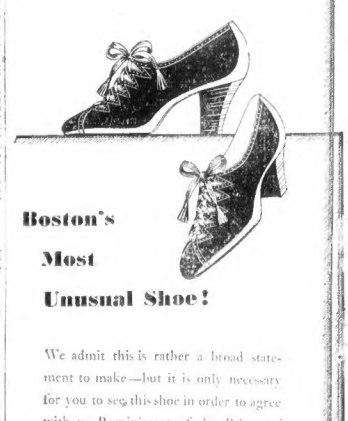
The VASSAR TIE



Boston's Most Unusual Shoe!

We admit this is rather a broad statement to make—but it is only necessary for you to see this shoe in order to agree with us. Reminiscent of the Prince of Wales tie but much newer, the Vassar Tie is made of tan or black Morocco kid. Added suppleness is afforded because of the fact that there are no side seams. The heel is a Cuban one of built-up leather, and the price is $20 the pair. See this unusual shoe at any one of our stores — you'll be intrigued by it.

POLICE COMMR. WILSON GRILLED IN GARRETT INVESTIGATION

HEARING TENSE WHEN BANK ACCOUNTS ARE TOUCHED ON

Q—It wouldn't be a great task to call on them to see if this rule was being enforced, would it? A—No.

Q—But it has never occurred to you to do it? A—I supposed that it was being done.

Q—Do you recall any specific cases? A—Yes, Capt. Campbell in East Boston, Capt. Long in Charlestown, Capt. King in South Boston and Deputy Superintendent Capt. Anderson in the Back Bay.

Q—Did you ever take any steps to find out? A—No.

Q—Because if an officer should engage in any private business it would inevitably bring him into relations as a debtor, creditor or partner with other members of the community? A—Yes.

Q—And consequently involve him with people who might break the law? A—Yes.

Q—And if he engages in a private calling which would put him in relationship with violators of the law that would tempt him to protect them from the law? A—Possibly.

Q—And you found it incumbent on you to take cognizance of any such of this rule and investigate it? A—Yes.

Q—Now Mr. Wilson recognizing the pressures exercised between husband and wife who depend upon the wife from engaging in private occupations? A—I would not.

Q—Do you think the wife who could be a private business or who was employed by a private business could impair the efficiency of the police? A—I don't think so.

Q—If the wife engaged in business with a notorious bootlegger? A—That's different.

Q—Well, suppose that the wife of an officer is engaged in business with a known bootlegger, and thus impairing the efficiency of the officer would you feel justified in calling the officer on the carpet and finding out the truth? A—Yes.

Q—Now I think, Mr. Wilson, you appear before the rules committee of the Massachusetts Legislature and you told the rules committee there were three things in the operation of the police department of the city of Boston you were under consideration to cure, and you said these three things were graft, drunkenness and political influence? A—Yes.

Q—And those three things you said were fundamental to the conduct of the police department in the city of Boston? A—Yes, sir. And I have tried to live up to it, too. (This answer with emphasis.)

Q—And you said regarding untruthfulness that you have publicly announced you would not stand for it? A—Yes, sir.

Q—And you said that was in section 11 of rule 26 for the guidance of the police department over which you are head? A—Yes.

Q—More questions dealing with the fundamentals were gone into by the examiner.

Q—And if an officer was before you on the complaint of a commissioner for being an untruthful man in his superior you would take action against him? A—After I had ascertained the facts, yes.

Q—And upon that report coming to your attention you would feel it your duty to punish that man? A—That would depend upon what the circumstances were.

Q—And this is one of the rules the violation of which you cannot tolerate. A—Yes.

Q—Now, Mr. Wilson, I call your attention to section 3, rule 29. Will you read it please?

A—Yes. (Wilson reads the rule and turns the page over and passes the book back to Hall.

The rule concerned police direct or indirectly accepting a gratuity from any person liable to arrest, or accepting any gift or gratuity from a person or persons, or any kind of a reward from a person who has been discharged from

Q—Is there any more important rule in keeping the department clean from entangling alliances? A—I agree there is none more important.

Q—And such rule is reported in bulletin 1 preventing any police officer would embarrass the performance of their duties? A—Yes.

Q—Do you think that where a gratuity is given by any person in touch with a relative, if such person is liable to arrest or complaint, and that person happens to be the wife or daughter of an officer would be very reprehensible? A—Yes, sir, etc.

Q—Now I ask you what sense you think such a gift by such a person liable to arrest or complaint to a wife of an officer or family of a police officer?

A—It would be reprehensible. A man cannot always control his wife's actions.

Continuing his answer Wilson added, "It would be up to the officer to report it if he knew about it."

Q—Is that all, just to stop it? Wouldn't it be up to the officer to report it to his superior in the command?

Q—Now, Mr. Wilson, I call your attention to section 3, rule 29. He handed the book to Wilson.

Q—In order to have an efficient police officer, one who is at all times free to perform his duty, without fear or favor, it is of vital importance that he should not have business with persons of bad character who might seek licenses? A—Yes.

Q—It is important that they have no such relations that private affairs might interfere with his duties? A—Yes.

Q—I presume that you construe that rule in its broadest sense? A—Yes.

Q—And if it came to your attention that a man was known to mingle with persons of bad character such as a known bootlegger, that would meet your instant disapproval? A—Yes.

Q—You would probably discharge him? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Police officers are forbidden to borrow money? A—Yes.

Q—To keep them from entangling alliances? A—Yes, sir.

Q—And when it says directly or indirectly, it would prevent a wife or daughter from borrowing money for the benefit of husband or father? A—Yes.

Q—And such a thing would not war with your instant condemnation? A—Yes sir.

"I called your attention to section 1 of rule 41. Had said:

"That rule provides as follows: The commissioner may lower in rank or compensation, fine, suspend or

Q—It was a situation to warrant an investigation? A—If I had the facts, yes.

Q—You had a large body of men [illegible]

Q—Now if any officer's wife was receiving gifts from persons liable to arrest or complaint, what would you do? A—I'd have an investigation made.

Q—And you would have your entire force [illegible]? A—Not the entire force, a sufficient number.

Q—And if the facts warranted it you would dismiss him? A—Yes sir.

At this point a ten minute recess was called.

After the recess Hall resumed the questioning with Commissioner Wilson still under fire.

Q—Did Mr. Garrett ever make application under this rule? A—No.

Q—You also had authority to investigate matters affecting any member of the force? A—Yes, and it was some job chasing all the rumors.

Q—Yes, but there were so many rumors some times you had to chase them, didn't you? A—Yes depending on their character.

Q—And when [illegible] statement it was [illegible] even the rudest [illegible]

Q—At an early date in your administration you began receiving complaints against O. B. Garrett? A—I can't state how early.

Q—Well you began receiving complaints that he was grafting, didn't you? A—Yes, by reputation. I have heard words to that regard [illegible]. Hall likely thinks so, laughter).

Q—And at no [illegible] committee and [illegible]

Q—Now if any officer's wife was receiving gifts from persons liable to arrest or complaint, what would you do? A—I'd have an investigation made.

Q—And you would have your entire force [illegible]? A—Not the entire force, a sufficient number.

Q—Now, Mr. Wilson, I call your attention to section 3, rule 29. He handed the book to Wilson.

Q—Did you call in any body else? A—I merely gave it to the commanding officer.

Q—And Captain Patterson investigated and reported to you and that was all? A—Yes.

Q—As you go on we'll see? A—Maybe so.

Q—Did you call in any body else? A—I merely gave it to the commanding officer.

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardeth Carroll bravely lives in the drab home of her Aunt Stella Neil Burke and uncle, claims Ardeth as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. Ardeth sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gibson. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeanette Parker, society girl plans to use Ardeth in a scheme for revenge. She opens a shop and engages Ardeth to run it. Ardeth sees that she can never marry Neil. Ken comes to the shop and meets Ardeth. Both are secretly impressed. Sunday they spend an hour in horseback. Then Ardeth becomes jealous of Cecile, Jeanette's sister. Ken tells her there is nothing in it but later breaks an engagement and she imagines he is with her rival.

CHAPTER 24

BEFORE! The-at-the-Beach reached the scintillating glory of becoming San Francisco's most romantic cafe, it had been a large private dwelling standing in solitary glory on the city's ocean shore.

The long hall, now used for dancing though ample for a home, was entirely inadequate for the pleasure-seekers which gathered here Saturday nights, and dances quickly evolved into a confused and laughing shuffle.

On the nights when she had come out here with Ken this had been a piquant feature to madcap gayety of the evening, to worm their way through the merry crowd, pressed close and

A long time only; then the music had carried her by the open door, away from the blue misery in Ken's eyes, and Ardeth forgot her [illegible]

It was an open wound in her soul. She turned on herself with bitter scorn. Well, was she going to stretch herself out for a man to walk on? She seemed to hear the mocks of Aunt Stella directed at Neil, at sweet Cecile's [illegible] "I hate a doormat woman!"

She goaded herself to animation, to [illegible] fought in light of Ken's shining head bent to Cecile. Oh! Whirling, manic sweeping through her like a bitter wind, leaving desolation in [illegible]

"You're a lovely thing—" Tom was saying softly.

The golden eyes swept up, startling him by their sudden brash.

"Not really!" she mocked.

BILL PERMITS REMOVAL OF 'MIDWAY'

Cong. McCormack Notifies the Mayor of Proposed Appropriation for Harbor Survey

A complete survey of Boston Harbor by the federal government, at a cost of approximately $3,000,000, is a likelihood to be made as a result of changes in the rivers and harbors bill now in Congress. Mayor [illegible] was so informed today by Congressman John W. McCormack.

The outcome of action started by the Board of Port Authority Engineers, a part of the Chamber of Commerce and by the mayor, who [illegible] Congressman McCormack's aid.

The proposed expenditure of $3,000,000 compares, according to Mr. McCormack, with a normal annual appropriation for this port of about $100,000.

The rivers and harbors bill has been cleared, he asserts in a letter to Mayor Curley, and among the provisions inserted are the following:

Complete survey of the entire harbor.

Removal of the so-called "mud [illegible] between Presidents roads and the Navy Yard.

Newton has begun to recover from the building depression of the past several months, according to the monthly report of the public buildings department, issued today.

The valuation of buildings for which permits were issued during March was nearly equal to that of the months of January and February combined. During the past month a total of 81 permits were issued for buildings having an aggregate estimated valuation of $168,925.

The total number of permits issued so far this year is 190 and the aggregate value of the buildings is $407,055. Last year the

Why Hundreds of Women Offer to Marry Man They Don't Even Know

Philip Gagnon wants a wife strangers to him, throw themand suddenly 700 women selves at his feet.

The motives are many, says Dr. A. A. Roback, noted psychologist, and then there's the romance.

Then there's the practical side; a husband is something, and so is a home and protection.

And it's not all one-sided; many are willing to do their share when it comes to finances.

Dr. Roback says publicity gives flavor of romance, and a desire to be a winner spurs them on.

What Can Compare With Comfort In Shoes?

Never again do you need to spend an uncomfortable moment from badly-fitting shoes—because at any one of the three Coward Shoe Stores you will find the comfort shoe which exactly suits your purpose and your foot.

The shoe illustrated is a particularly popular model with men who demand absolute comfort with smartness. It is a light-weight oxford, designed over a combination last, which insures a snug-fitting heel, with plenty of room at the toe. And it is made of soft, pliable black kid, the material which is so comforting to tender feet. Rubber heels are an additional comfort feature which do so much to relieve jagged nerves. Sizes 5½ to 12—$9.45.

WALTER HAGEN'S Greatest Contribution to Golf

'COMPACT BLADES'

Hagen "Compact Blades" represent the most forward step in iron club design and structure that has come about in years. It was not surprising that this most logical development should come from the golf wisdom of Walter Hagen—for "the Haig" is responsible for "Compact Blades." Over a year ago, he decided that shorter, deeper and more compact blades, with certain features of equalized balance and design, gave not only the answer to the new large golf ball, but also made possible greater accuracy and more powerful shots with the present ball. As a result all WALTER HAGEN MATCHED AND REGISTERED IRONS have been built in accordance with the compact blade principle.

"Compact Blades" place more weight behind the ball, the steel which formerly extended out into the toe being retained in the blade when shortened to give increased depth and thickness—the total club weight remaining the same. "Compact Blades" give better control in all shots—accuracy being accomplished with more certainty and and ease than with irons formerly used.

Another great contribution that Walter Hagen has made to golf is the Hagen Aluminum Sleeve Shock Absorber, now being used on certain of the "Compact Blade" models. This aluminum sleeve, located at the juncture of the shaft and the neck of the iron, prevents excess vibration traveling up the shaft with its resultant stinging of the hands. This aluminum sleeve shock absorber is really permanent.

Recent tournaments won with complete sets of Hagen clubs include the British Open, Great Lakes Open, Oregon $6,000 Open, Hawaiian $6,000 Open, Berkeley $4,000 Open, Pasadena $4,000 Open and Savannah Open. Hagen clubs predominated in the bags of 5 of the first 7 in the Oregon Open; 6 of the first 8 in the Pasadena Open; the winners of 1st and 2nd in the Western Open; 3 of the first 4 including the winner in the $10,000 Los Angeles Open; 12 of the 24 prize winners in the $25,000 Agua Caliente Open and 6 of the first 10 in the $15,000 La Gorce Open.

Horton Smith plays Hagen steel shafted "Compact Blade" matched irons exclusively.

SHIPMENTS OF AUTOS IS AT HIGH MARK

Chicago, April 3. March shipments of the Auburn Automobile Co. were the largest for the month in the history of the company, increasing 81 per cent over the previous month and 81½ per cent over a year ago, it was announced today by H. L. Cord, president. "Not only does this represent the best March the Auburn Company ever had," Mr. Cord said, "but in only three months in our entire history have we ever done better and that was the record-breaking second quarter last year."

The March shipments totalled 2007 cars, compared with 1469 in February and 2308 in March, 1929. This record March showing makes Auburn one of the only two or three companies to show a greater volume of business this year than in 1929. The total shipments for the first three months of 1930 were 5303 cars compared with 4848 in the corresponding period of 1929 an increase of almost 3 per cent.

"I see no reason why Auburn should not continue at this rate," Mr. Cord said. "On April 1st, our unfilled orders were 50 per cent greater than on March 1st. Reports from distributors and dealers are uniformly optimistic. We shipped over 6000 cars in a period that was not particularly good for the automobile industry as a whole. Therefore we look forward to a big second quarter as well. In fact, it is quite possible that we can establish a new high record for all time.

In the second quarter last year there were approximately 5700 Auburns shipped, so that we have to sell only 2700 more cars this quarter than in the first three months to exceed the record breaking quarter last year. Our increasing business on the production board is particularly gratifying.

In New York and Philadelphia territories our March deliveries ran close to the best in our history. This growth in sales experience gained right up to the close of March. Our factory shipments in the last week of March were 1400 cars, which was exceeded in only three weeks of our entire history.

This is an additional reason for looking forward to the second quarter with high hopes. Another factor is that Cord sales are becoming more satisfactory every day as we look for a continued growth in demand for front wheel drive line."

CURB UTILITIES AT NEW HIGHS

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, April 3 (AP). The Curb Market worked irregularly lower in quieter trading today, as the bull crowd permitted the ensuing movement which swept the market late yesterday to spend itself. Losses were largely limited to a point or so, and several shares were inclined to rally at times.

The Niagara Hudson Power group continued to show conspicuous strength, reflecting indication of an early affiliation with Consolidated Gas of New York. Niagara Hudson stock was carried up across 20 for the first time this year.

Eastern States Power, which has large holdings in Niagara Hudson, was a strong feature, the "B" stock touching a new high at 40, above the 1929 record price at 38. St. Regis Paper was also firm, reaching another high territory for the movement.

Other utilities, notably the Electric Bond & Share group, were under pressure. Electric Bond and American Superpower each sold off a point or so, and the United Gas stocks sagged moderately. Such issues as United Light "A," Utilities Power & Light and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore eased.

Industrials and specialties were highly irregular. A few issues, notably Agfa Ansco, Cooper Besemer, Root Refining, Sherwin Williams and Zonite were in fair demand. Aviation Corp of the Americas, a recent strong spot, dropped a few points, and Superheater eased several points. Todd Shipyard, a firm spot yesterday, slipped back a couple of points.

Oils turned quiet, and were barely steady. Cities Service and Standard of Indiana were fairly active, easing fractionally.

Canadian National

Canadian National gross for 10 days ended March 31 was $5,881,642 against $7,498,480 a year before.

TELEVISION UP IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Jenkins Television featured trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today, soaring 4 points to a new high at 8. After touching a new low of 34 Eastern Steamship common rebounded to a new high for the year, over 36. Acquisition of the company by Pennroad is regarded as a future possibility.

Quincy added to its gain of seven-day jumping almost 2 points to 42½. Gain for the week-end is 4 points and First National Stores was up a point.

Boston Personal Property dropped 12. Anaconda eased over a point and Brown & Co preferred 2 points.

American Woolen preferred jumped to Boston Maine B changed gained 2. Point gains were shown by the preferred and the first preferred issues of Eastern Steamship.

Textiles were easier. Financial issues also were lower. Utilities held at 2½, and Amoskeag at 15½.

After being in the red for December, Industrial Rayon Boston Magnolia Petroleum reported profits on its operations for March. From now on the outlook is for progressive improvement.

Shipments by Baldwin Locomotive Works in the first quarter of 1930 trailed the output in first quarter of 1929. Value of orders shipped in 1930 in March 31 was $2,226,000, against $2,224,000 in first three months of 1930. Value of shipments in March, 1930, doubled March in 1929, at $2,666,000 and $978,000.

$225,000,000 IN RAIL LIENS

Washington, April 3 (AP). Major railroads of the nation have asked permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue in the last month to issue more than $225,000,000 in securities.

In March of last year applications to the commission for approval of financing amounted to only $96,938,000.

Though considerable part of the proceeds from the bonds is to be used for refunding maturing issues and other corporate purposes, a large percentage will go toward the purchase of new equipment and improvements to the roads.

Of the huge expenditures of which the President was informed during the business conference in December, $490,000,000 was planned for expenditure in the first six months of this year, $115,000,000 more than was expended during the first half of 1929.

Futures Are Lower in Cotton Market

New York, April 3. Trading was comparatively quiet in the cotton market today, prices being off one to seven points at the start. Selling by local operators was probably encouraged by the lower cables, and the dispositions to take profits continues. Later selling pressure, while not heavy, increased and the market showed less resistance, resulting in easier prices, with October at 15.05 or 7 points off, and January at 15.05, off 7 points.

Phila. Electric to Offer Rights

Philadelphia, April 3—Directors of Philadelphia Electric Co. have taken action, subject to approval by stockholders at annual meeting April 9, to create additional no-par common in amount of one share for each share of common outstanding of record April 16. Holders of common will be given right to subscribe at $25 a share Multi-Billionaire Nation Proper Name for U. S.

Can Its Irrepressible Spirit Be Kept Down Long? Stock Values

—By B. C. FORBES—

NEW YORK, April 3—This multi-billionaire country of ours is irrepressible. In the month just ended the market value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased three billion dollars. The gain since the first of the year has been a billion dollars a quarter for both quarters. After a shrinkage in October, November and December of three billions, we have now recovered two billions.

B. C. Forbes

It is not so long ago that the United States was considered a "billion-dollar country." It can now be called a "multi-billionaire possession."

An expression of opinion: Well, let's see.

We have ten corporations, American Telephone & Telegraph, that has assets far exceeding four billions, Metropolitan Life has over three billions, Pennsylvania R.R. system, Union Pacific, Standard Oil (New Jersey), U. S. Steel and Consolidated Gas System of New York Company each has resources of two billions or more.

Last year Metropolitan Life's sales topped one billion dollars of policies, the Steel Corporation totaled a billion dollars, General Motors a billion and a third, A. & P. Stores sold a billion dollars' worth at retail, and Standard Oil & Co. has exploited that figure.

New securities issued last year approximated a billion dollars more than $4,000,000,000.

Dividends distributed last year amounted to about $4,000,000,000.

We pay income taxes totaling two and one-third billions.

Our exports are over $5,000,000,000 and our imports not far short of $4,000,000,000.

Stock sales on the New York Stock Exchange figured on a par value of $200, for last year, at $60,000,000. The net receipts of our farmers last year totaled $10,000,000,000.

Our national wealth is now estimated at $360,000,000,000.

Our national income for last year is computed at 90,000,000,000.

We have 110 billions of life insurance in force.

Our annual bank clearings reach astronomical figures.

Our investments abroad approximate seventeen billions—we supplied others last year alone with more than one and two-thirds billion.

Our banking resources have reached 50 billions.

Our total savings have passed 28 billions.

We have invested 25 billions in steam railroads—and spend five from three billions in railway wages. Passengers using our railways travel over 20 billion miles annually.

Our electric plant and equipment is valued at eleven billions and gross revenue last year totaled two billions.

The United States uses about ten billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year, more than half a hundred billion cubic feet of manufactured gas and over two hundred billion cubic feet of natural gas a year.

Cigarette sales last year were close to 100 billions.

Experts figure that we spend almost ten billions a year in restaurants.

We consume fifteen billion gallons of gasoline a year—our automobiles this year will travel 10 excess of 150 billion miles.

Raw sugar consumption is in the neighborhood of thirteen billion pounds.

We produce three and one-half billion kilowatt hours of electricity, the total value of our textile products approximates nine billion dollars.

We eat upwards of five billion pounds of meat and three billion pounds of pork.

Perhaps most important of all at this moment, holding construction planned and in reaches the inspiring sum of nine billion dollars.

* * *

Is it reasonable to suppose that this multi-billionaire country will long be kept down or keep itself down?

It may not rebound with the rapidity of recovery in Wall Street, but that it will keep on recovering, at least at moderate pace, cannot be doubted.

DULLNESS IN A BIG BOND MARKET

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, April 3 (AP)—The market for bonds added to the day in one of the years dullest trading periods with small movements and price fluctuations for the most part were unimportant.

United States governments were quiet and without interest in the earlier transactions apparent in anticipating an ease in money. Investment rails were quiet also, although issues as support of the list.

Pennsylvania sold 2s, Wabash 5s, Boston & Maine 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Burlington 4½s and Pittsburgh & West Virginia 4½s advanced with a fractional point appearing in some instances on a turnover showing a broad lend.

For the utilities and industrials as well for other public bonds there was only a small market. Conversely, slight changes in quotations drifted lower, especially the amusement company issues. General Theatres Equipment 6s and Loew's 6s and Warner Brothers Pictures 6½s suffered fractionally. National Dairy 5½s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and Northern Ohio Traction & Light 6s were firm.

Insurance Stocks' Averages Are Up

New York, April 3—With trading in investment issues more active during March than at any time since last autumn's break, the average for 20 leading issues in this group broke into new high ground, according to records compiled by Hoit, Rose & Troster (New York).

The weighted average of 20 leading stocks compiled by the firm broke through to a new high for 1930 of 75 on March 28, which average also was recorded on the closing day of the month. During the month 13 of the 20 issues used in the average established new high records for the year.

Based upon the closing bid prices the range for the month was as follows:

At the Radio Dial

By THE RADIO EDITOR

THERE are those to be found who honestly proclaim Beniamino Gigli the successor to the late Caruso. Consequently, his rare appearances in the radio studio spell unusual entertainment for vast audiences of opera lovers. He is the glittering star of tonight's RCA Victor Hour at 10 o'clock on the Red Network.

TWO UNDYING operatic showpieces will be offered by Gigli in his Victor program. One is the suave "O Paradiso" from Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine." The other is the lyric "Una Furtiva Lagrima" from Donizetti's opera of comic relief, "The Elixir of Love." Differing from the tenor's offerings are in ballad style, with a recapture of old times in the smooth-flowing "Plaisir d'Amour" of Martini.

BOSTONIA weekly national chain broadcasts, originated each week by the Douglas Shoemakers over the Columbia System, brings a new soloist to the front tonight at 8:30. Miss Alice Donahue, sister of Jack Donahue, of "Sons o' Guns" fame, will rattle off a military tap dance number as a concession to the present tap dancing craze afflicting American vaudeville. Miss Donahue has been featured in Orpheum and various vaudeville presentations.

Alice Donahue

FORMS of the inevitable this afternoon in the exchange of amenities between President Hoover and the Presidents of Chile and Uruguay and between officials of our Departments of State and Interior and their colleagues in these two countries and Argentina. But there was interest for a listening public in this official opening of telephone circuits reaching 6000 miles south. The voices of the speakers on the southern ends of the circuits were clear and distinct. The two Latin Presidents spoke in Spanish, and their remarks were even briefer than those of our own Chief Executive. The entire proceedings were carried by WNAC, WBZA, WEEI and nearly all Columbia and N.B.C. stations.

THAT WAS a rip-snorter of an adventure tale which topped off the Forty-Fathom broadcast last night. There was a touch of unreality in the dramatization of the French pirate, frozen for 50 years in the Antarctic, and brought back to life only to go through a rapid dissolution of his forces. "How could a man, frozen 50 years, be brought back to life?" demanded the Cockney sailor.

MORNING lightness of touch characterized the new symphonic-operatic Philco Hour on Columbia stations last night. Adele Vasa has never sung with such brilliance as she did in the Hymn to the Sun from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Golden Cockerel." The Wagner numbers were confined to the briefest possible space, and the ballet from Delibes' "Sylvia" was done in modern fast dance rhythm. The great Finale from "Faust" fully lived up to the announcer's promises. The one weak spot in the program was the tenor. Clarence Whitehill was a bit too much for his vocal gifts.

PORT OF BOSTON

By CARL MORRISON

Shipping interests, ahoy!

Boston port authority speaking through the Boston Evening American.

There's an opportunity for all those interested in booming the port to join a good cause.

Mayor Curley recently telegraphed to Washington about the need of a $3,000,000 port development program. The principal feature was a proposed dredging of the "middle ground" shoal area in the harbor.

Word has been received that this item, out of the four asked by the mayor has a good chance of passing Congress in the rivers and harbors appropriation.

A concerted movement by the steamship, railway, Chamber of Commerce and general transportation people would greatly increase the likelihood of success for this legislation.

Richard Parkhurst, secretary of the port authority, urges that those who use the port in any way, should telegraph or write to their Congressional representatives. This show of support would, in his opinion, be of great service.

The dredging proposition would have two outstanding benefits:

FIRST, it would allow better approach to Boston in the harbor, thus eliminating the danger of going aground in foggy weather.

SECOND, it would permit increased anchorage grounds in the inner harbor.

"I hope all the shipping interests and others will give this agitation a little push," said Mr. Parkhurst today.

"Elimination of this grounding danger will be of vast importance to our harbor, and be a big aid to development."

* * *

As an indication of what the port of Boston can do, was the record cargo of 1,300 bales of Louisiana cotton consigned to mills in Fall River and New Bedford. The Commercial Association brought from New Orleans and Mobile one of the largest cargoes ever to come from the south to Fall River. The Mooremack Gulf liner extended their service to the Hub port.

At least that's what shipping people said, when they learned that the old ferry boat named after the general had been auctioned off for only $700.

Built 30 years ago for $80,000 in East Boston, the old wooden ferry had a career which deserved better fate than a junk heap. She has carried all of 50,000,000 passengers.

The junking industry of Boston picked up an excellent bargain, for the old timer easily should net a profit of four or five thousand dollars.

This is what $703 brought to the junkers: 75 tons of coal, two boilers, a generating plant, pumps, engines, two brass wheels each weighing a ton, and a quantity of copper in the frames.

For junk alone, this equipment would be worth well over $4000, gobmen say. They believe that as a house boat the old tub would bring $1000 or more.

* * *

Why not rebuild the old tub into a pleasure craft for the Charles river? We hear much about "population" for the river. The General Sumner would make a romantic appeal as a floating dance hall at some strategic point near street railway and automobile connections, in the neighborhood of Massachusetts ave.

APRIL SAILINGS

The April steamship sailings from Boston for foreign ports are listed by the port authority as follows:

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Pay for the Doctor

Towns Are Doing It When There Is No Other Way

HUNDREDS of towns in New England lament the disappearance of the town medical man, guide, counsellor and friend to every inhabitant thereof. Large medical societies are discussing, very seriously, the problem, with a view of seeing what can be done from their end, and the towns without doctors are driven into taking up their end of the matter, too.

The main trouble is the lack of practice in the small towns, and the distances to be travelled, although this has been mitigated by the advent of the automobile. Then, too, country people cannot, or will not, pay the fees which are reasonably expected by the physician who spends many years and many dollars fitting himself to sell his knowledge and services to the ailing.

Some of the Massachusetts hill towns have already appropriated money to give basic pay to the doctor who will settle in the town. Other towns are making him chairman of the board of health, or placing him in other public office where he can receive varying sums of money, contributory to his proper support and decent profit.

Greenland, N. H., has just appropriated $500 to be directly used in paying a physician to establish a residence in that town. This is the way to do it. With a start of this kind, any physician should maintain himself in most districts in northern New England.

Baby Marriages

No More in India.

AT midnight Monday "baby marriages" were banned throughout the length and breadth of British India. Henceforth Indian brides must be at least fourteen years old, and bridegrooms eighteen.

You are interested to learn that in the last few months thousands of girl babies have been rushed to the altar to be married before the law went into effect. Some of these child brides were less than two years of age.

There have been riots against the British because of this "interference with religious liberty."

An interesting news item from a country that demands self-rule and freedom from British "tyranny," as it is called.

However, hardly a century ago British judges were upholding child labor in England on the grounds of "freedom of contract." They ruled that a child of six was free to work in a mill, eighteen hours a day, without interference from anybody.

"To prohibit such employment," gravely announced one learned judge, "would be an invasion of the child's property right to sell its services at the most advantageous rate in the open market."

Even in the own enlightened country we have heard that sort of reasoning.

Still, England and America are considerably ahead of India.

Uncle Sam Buys a Ghost

His Name Is Balthasar.

UNCLE SAM bought a ghost the other day—or rather it was thrown in with a house in Paris which is to become the American Embassy.

The ghost's name is Balthasar Grimod de la Reyniere. When he was flesh and blood he was one of France's greatest gourmets. Legend has it that he was a genial gentleman, with a habit of giving dinners to starving beggars whom he had picked up in the streets.

Balthasar, however, was anything but a prohibitionist. In fact, he fostered the evils of intemperance among the poor. His parties usually wound up with the guests roaring drunk. They came to his banquets from the gutter and finished them there.

It is disquieting to think that such a dissipated shade should corrupt the pure atmosphere of an American building, even in Paris. Some Kansan is going to hear about him one of these days and make trouble for the administration, which already has enough ghosts to lay without acquiring new ones.

Balthasar should be banished or executed or something. We might tolerate him if he were bone dry, but he never will be. He hasn't any bones.

He Was Honest

Officials Were Shocked.

A DOCTOR in Trenton, N. J., has upset the city tax department by a protest—not that his tax was too high, but that it was too low.

The doctor explained that a year ago, while associated with another physician, he asked for a reduction of his assessment. Since then he has opened his own office and bought additional equipment.

"You were so decent about it before that I thought the only decent thing to do now was to come and tell you about it," he said. "I want my tax raised."

When officials recovered they promised to adjust it to his satisfaction. But it is lucky these cases don't happen often. A few more like that and the average tax collector—or anybody else—would die of the shock.

Human nature can't stand too much unmitigated honesty—it is not hardened to it.

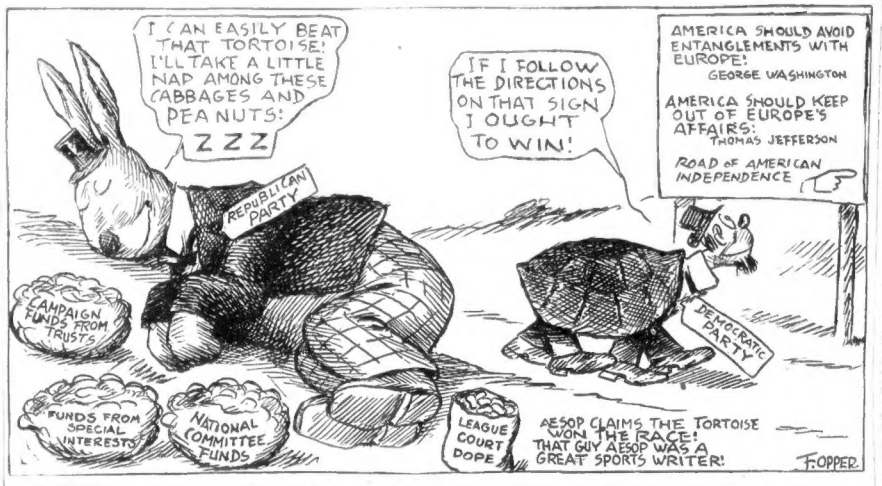
Plenty of Sugar, No Snow

STRANGE news this—that the Vermont Association of Boston, which will hold an old-fashioned maple sugar party Saturday evening in Mechanics Building, may have to send to Chicago to get snow for use in cooling the syrup, as in the good old-fashioned way.

You can appreciate what a mild winter this has been when we are told that the snowfall in Northern Vermont was so light that there has been none on the hills of the Green Mountain State for a month or more.

However, don't let this keep you away from the party. The sugar will be there even if the snow is not.

AESOP WAS A GREAT SPORTS WRITER



AESOP was a great sports writer, and, in the parlance of the sports pages, "knew his onions."

He picked the tortoise to win the race, and the tortoise WON, although all the form players banked on the hare.

If the tortoise in the above picture-editorial of the young Mr. Opper follows the directions on the signpost and keeps on plodding down the "Road of American Independence," he stands a chance to win this race.

That signpost outlines the traditional American policy on foreign affairs.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

THIS "rain" went on during much of the Upper Cretaceous period (IV CD), for at least ten million years; and through much of this vast lapse of time the conditions of life on the bottom of the chalk-depositing sea continued so similar that many of the same kinds of animals are found in every layer.

H. G. Wells

Among the most abundant and the best studied of the chalk fossils are the sea-urchins known as Micraster. These are found, and found abundantly throughout most of the lower half of the chalk.

In Southern England, for instance, they persist through 450 to 500 feet of chalk, the total thickness of the deposit varying from nearly 1300 to nearly 1500 feet. Translated into time, this means 35 to 40 per cent of the total chalk period, certainly over four million years.

Throughout this long period the fossil Micrasters are so abundant that hundreds of thousands can be collected and a gradual evolution can be traced as we pass upwards.

The changes are apparently trivial. There is a slow alteration of shape from rather flattened to rather arched, and from rather elongated to about as broad as long. The mouth creeps steadily forward. Its distance from the front border of the lowest surface decreasing from about nine millimeters in the early types to four or five in the latest, on a total length of 50 to 70 millimeters.

A low ridge, totally absent at first, appears and grows slowly higher along the hinder part of the upper surface. The grooves from which the tube-feet emerge grow longer, and their surface, smooth at first, becomes sculptured.

The mouth gets more and more over-hung by a protruding lip of the hard skeleton; the little knobs on the skeleton become in some regions gradually more prominent. There are other changes, but these are the most obvious.

Opinions differ as to the number of separate species into which Micraster should be divided during this period. Since the gaps are continuous, this question can only receive an arbitrary answer; but it is worth recording that the most conservative estimate is half a dozen.

The changes are infinitesimal both in the extent and biological meaning compared with those in the brain. The explanation doubtless lies in the fact that at the beginning of the chalk period the sea urchins were already an old and well-differentiated stock.

Even the earliest Micrasters were highly specialized for life in sand and mud, and there was neither need nor room for any radical improvement.

The mammals, on the other hand, were one and all primitive and small in early Cenozoic times; there was obvious necessity and opportunity for their improvement, and the horses shared in the great evolutionary movement which completely remodelled the whole mammalian stock between Eocene (VA) and Pliocene (VD).

Steadfast as it is, Micraster answers our present purpose, for though the changes involved are small they are absolutely continuous, the urchins found at one level grading quite imperceptibly into those found at the next; a single specimen, indeed, may show characters of one "species" in some of its tube-feet grooves, characters of another in the rest.

There is no question but that the Cretaceous sea persisted without any notable change in its conditions throughout the whole time, and that our urchins lived, died and reproduced upon its bed in a continuous succession, so that the fossils from the lower layers were actually the parents of those embedded higher up.

Slowly the race modified itself by almost imperceptible degrees Micraster changed its shape. The evolutionary movement which Micraster demonstrates to us is only small and sluggish, but the demonstration which it gives is complete, with not a chink or loophole in it.

NON-SEASONAL

THE fairways change from brown to green,
All emerald shows the ground.
But the doggone sandtraps look the same
The whole year 'round.

IT'S when in a sandtrap that even the most enterprising of us are willing to let the grass grow under our feet.

THE Europa is 1,000 feet in length, and we'll see ocean greyhounds grow longer until only a pair of bow and stern gangplanks will be needed to span the Atlantic without moving.

"MID-WESTERN metropolis fears a milk shortage," we read, but why worry as long as the ginger ale supply holds out?

NEW star is still without a name, and here we are about to begin taking the census, and all we have is the planet's address.

IN our opinion there is no hope of naming the planet until President Hoover appoints a Name-Finding Commission.

BUT British scientist asserts the new star isn't a full-sized planet and, in those congested times, it may be best to call it a planette.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Smocking the Chauffeur

NEW YORK'S thirty thousand taxi pilots have defeated Grover Whalen's attempt to make 'em dress like standardized orphans.

The police commissioner's plans and specifications called for a uniform smock, spats and a polo hat.

The smock was to be blue in color, with pinch-back effect, crown fender lapels and non-refillable hip pockets.

In case a smocked chauffeur smacked a passenger with a Stillson wrench, the chauffeur would be unsmocked.

Everybody knows that a taxi jockey has peculiar and manly ideas about dress. He attends so many Park avenue dances that he keeps an emergency tuxedo in his tool chest.

When the smocking idea bloomed forth in all its brilliant statistics, the chauffeurs held an indignation meeting on the driver's seat. The spokesman made a speech in which he said, "Grover has power but he cannot smock us around like that."

Driving a taxi in New York or any other city is not a lavaliere of Christmas tree ornaments. When you are line-heing through the tulips of traffic you are running a war blockade that is never lifted.

We admit that the turf association has never set down a gasoline jockey for speeding. But there is plenty of crowding on the turns.

Instead of improving the chauffeurs, the traffic board could improve all his city touring by putting in a Liverpool jump.

The jocks did not object to the price of the smock, which was only about two bills. But they knew that if fashion got a start on them they would soon be wearing boutonnieres.

While they are crocheting plans and regulations for the deportment of chauffeurs, young Brooklyn folks would appreciate it if Mr. Whalen instructed the drivers never to look back.

The detest of the smockola as a uniform is due to the fact that chauffeurs have always associated uniforms with summonses.

We would like to see the boys look gnat and neaty, with Lord Fauntleroy bobs and eyelashes fluttering like angel wings. But we fear that most of the vulcanized veterans are not the type.

The Western Union has uniformed its midget Marathoners, and Roxy's ushers are the arbiters of sartorial efficiency.

But it looks as if the chauffeur will continue to be the good old rough-finished product who doesn't have to consult the dictionary for his emergency conversation.

You cannot expect too much at the rate of 15 cents for the first quarter-mile.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHICH METHOD?

WHAT'S the smartest way to get results?

I know of two salesmen—both intelligent, hard-working, ambitious—as evenly matched as a couple of go-getters could be. Yet, during the year, Ed White makes twice as much as Drexe Gray. Here's the story—what do you make of it?

Elsie Robinson

When Gray tackles a new prospect he does what every smart salesman is supposed to do. Sizes things up. Makes a careful survey of every possible difficulty and potential danger. It's interesting to watch him. He mentally goes over the field with a microscope, looking for pitfalls. Tabulates every conceivable handicap. Amazing the amount of trouble he can foresee. Then he prepares an elaborate program for meeting all these theoretical problems.

"NOBODY'S going to catch me napping," says Gray grimly—and nobody does. It's impossible to spring a trick on Gray that he hasn't already anticipated. He's certainly smart. Yet, somehow, in spite of this smartness, he doesn't get remarkable results.

ED WHITE, on the other hand, uses an entirely different method. Instead of making preliminary surveys and grave preparations, Ed just breezes into a situation. He must realize the possible difficulties, for he's plenty shrewd, but he doesn't spend time or energy getting ready for grief. Old Mr. Bitters may have a reputation in three states for cussedness—Mrs. Tattle may be a notorious shrew and tightwad—but you'd never guess it by watching Ed White. He greets everyone with the same merry June smile, the same air of confidential, long-established friendship. Confidence—that's Ed's long suit.

HE EXPECTS people to be nice to him. He expects people to work with him. And his expectations succeed. Of course they sometimes take advantage of his seeming carelessness, but, in the main, they seem to want to prove that his faith in their friendliness is justified.

Gray suspects. White expects.

Gray uses his energy in getting ready for grief — White prepares himself for pleasure and profit.

They both work hard. They both find what they're looking for. So does everyone else, for we're all either Grays or Whites. Which is your method?

Gray would answer this by saying: "Well, what would I have gotten if I hadn't doped out all the difficulties beforehand? They'd have wiped me out entirely."

I am told that Mrs. James Donahue, the former Jessie Woolworth, daughter of the 5 and 10 cent store magnate, has the second largest wardrobe in New York.

PEGGY JOYCE is reported to own more fur wraps than any person in town. Her collection includes 80 and her summer storage and insurance bill is more than $5000 a year. And for no particular reason—Miss Joyce's name will not be mentioned in this column for awhile.

The dollar a word rate paid for the magazine offerings of former President Coolidge and former Governor Al Smith is supposed to set a record, but a historian finds that James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Knee Deep in Sweetheart of Mine," earned for its author more than $500 a word.

Comparisons of literary pay are often made with Edgar Allen Poe as "the horrible example." Poe sold short stories for $10, but it was an exception and not the rule, even in those days.

A SHEAF of books arrive over a statement by this writer that the legitimate stage is wobbling about on its last legs and point to the excellence of a new crop of plays. I have seen most of them. With one exception, they stink—and sometimes hearty but never significant like —well, say an occasional column by O. O. McIntyre.

A traffic cop was bawling out one of the tight-waisted boys who was jay walking across Fifth ave. at 38th st. The jay walker, angered, replied: "I'm going to report you to the Commissioner. What is your number?"

"Here's my number, Clarence, and do you want my name also?"

"No," he falsetted. "Not your number. I have a name for you."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 3—Harlem's Black Belt continues to be a living place for metropolitan decadence, supplanting the old Tenderloin. When Broadway begins to yawn, it scurries to the curbs to taxi to Lenox ave., beyond 125th st.

Night dishes in Harlem do not begin until after 1 o'clock and is at its frothiest from 3 a. m. until dawn. Many cellars are filled with down town stay-outs in full evening dress as late as 9 o'clock in the morning. Raw gin is the tipple at from 30 cents to 60 cents a shot.

While the black and tan cabarets with crooning jazzists and dusky maidens, clad only in scant beaded choli and ankle bells, are plentiful, there are hidden haunts for the initiates that strike a booming note in the pagan carnival.

Whispering guides, similar to those capped cicerones who accost strangers under the portico of the Rue de Rivoli, are now a part of Harlem night life. They tell of sinister dens where highbrows dispost and where little is left to imagination. Midnight session boys!

DOWN town night clubs have been utterly unable to compete with Harlem's nocturnal naughtiness and most of the clubs are groggy and holding to the ropes. Out of 58 brand new clubs that opened for the season only 16 are still running.

Striver's Row is Harlem's Mayfair, so named because "those who strive" live there. It is a two-block long stretch on West 139th st. and the fortunate dwellers, all successful colored people, live in a fashionable row of houses designed by the late Stanford White. Limousines are at the curb. At many doors uniformed butlers answer the ring. Florence Mills lived there as did Bert Williams, Paul Robeson and others of the elect.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE old house drowses day by day.
The old house dreams the years away.
Set in wide gardens, cool and sweet,
That screen it from the eager street.
Half-hidden by tall poplar trees
The old house nestles, no one sees.
Beyond the rows of holly hocks
That border on its crumbling walks.
Serene, its mellowed pillars rise,
All unpreganed by strangers' eyes.
The old house waits, like some old heart
For those, well-loved, who played their part
Within its chambers long ago.
For children whom it used to know,
For golden youth and sombre age
Which had their setting on its stage.
As Spring and Autumn, sun and rain
Beat out time's ever-new refrain,
The old house, faithful to the last,
Waits those it sheltered in the past.
Forgetful, like old hearts grown,
It dwells in days of long ago.
